FEAR SECOND BLOOD PURGE IN GERMANY

Nazis' Big Drive Against "Reactionaries" Causes Many Rumors

NEW ATTENTION IS FOCUSED ON JEWS

BERLIN, July 26 (AP).—Uncertainty and tension growing out of the Nazis' big drive against "reactionaries" brought whispered conjecture today that another "Blood Purge" might result.

Jews and some diplomatic quarters compared the tactics employed against Jews, Steel Helmet war veterans and "political Catholics" to those which preceded the June 1934 blood letting, in which Adolf Hitler and his helpers eliminated unwanted party members.

German and foreign observers were watching developments closely, apparently believing in the possibility of changes in the Cabinet and National Socialism's leadership likely.

WHISPERED FEARS
A welter of rumors, dire predictions and fears expressed sotto voce, like those of June, 1934, accompanied progress of the offensive against "reactionaries."

The Steel Helmets were today's worst sufferers. Governor Erich Koch, of East Prussia, between Poland and Russia, dissolved their organization, adding the East Prussian units to those already under the Nazi ban in Silesia, Mecklenburg, Anhalt, Baden and Thuringia. Catholics, too, were affected. Chief Heinrich Himmler, of the Secret Police, ordering confessional youth groups not to wear uniforms or badges or carry flags. His decree duplicated that issued earlier this week by Wilhelm Frick, Minister of Interior.

New attention was focused upon Naziism's anti-Semitic campaign when the official German Olympic committee disclosed that there were no Jews among athletes chosen to

NEW YORK PIER SCENE OF RIOT

Anti-Nazi Demonstrators Clash With Police When Bremen Sails

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP).—One man was shot and critically wounded, and a number were injured in hand-to-hand fighting between police and hundreds of Communist sympathizers, who staged an anti-Nazi demonstration at the arrival of the Bremen late tonight.

The demonstrators, estimated by police to number more than 1,000, were driven from the pier at West 46th Street, but they staged a new riot at the police station, to which a half-dozen of their number were taken.

Fists flew freely in both outbreaks. All available helmets were summoned, and finally succeeded in quelling them.

TEAR DOWN FLAG
Three of the demonstrators gained the bow of the crack liner, ripped the German flag from its pole and threw it into the Hudson River while hundreds cheered on the pier and in the streets below.

A force of 150 patrolmen, 100 detectives and twenty-five mounted policemen fought to disperse the demonstrators. Two shots were fired in the melee and one man was wounded.

Detectives of the alien squad who boarded the ship, arrested the three who tore down the flag and the man who had been shot. He was carried away on a stretcher.

ARREST ANOTHER FOR KIDNAPPING

Jack Bannan Held by London Police in Connection With Labatt Case

LONDON, Ont., July 26 (AP).—Pursuing their unrelenting investigation of the year-old Labatt kidnapping case, police arrested Jack Basil Bannan, said to be a former Windsor beer runner, and held him in connection with the abduction and armed robbery of the wealthy London brewer.

Arrested in Windsor, Bannan was whisked under cover of darkness to Middlesex County Jail here early today. His arrest, however, remained a closely guarded secret until noon.

The county jail holds another of the alleged kidnappers, Kingston P. "Piccolo Pete" Murray, of Covington, Ky. Crown authorities are also seeking the return here for trial of Michael McCordell, Huron County native, held in Indiana in connection with the case.

FIND PEARL IN THE FOOD

Pleasing Discovery Is Made When Opening Ladysmith Oysters for Luncheon

LADYSMITH, July 26.—Lady Smith has entered the pearl industry! After more than forty years of more or less intensive oyster culture in the waters of the bay here, it was left to holiday visitors at Shell Beach from Victoria to issue the dramatic statement that a real oyster pearl had been fished from the local waters last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, in their comfortable power cruiser, The Countess, are awarded the honor of discovery, and have signified their intention of carrying the pleasant speck of beauty to Victoria for valuation.

SMALL BUT PERFECT
The pearl is very small, about one-eighth of an inch in diameter, of perfect shape and of a deep white. Its commercial value probably represents a good day's wage. The discovery was made while Mr. and Mrs. Smith were cleaning some oysters for lunch, and the pearl was found in a three-inch oyster of the Pacific species, introduced here some years ago from Japanese waters.

Although comparatively few people are aware at the moment of the finding of the pearl, some intensive oystering is proceeding near the location of the find, and a few optimists are reported to have gone on a practically exclusive oyster diet, in the knowledge that if they don't find pearls they will at least absorb a high average of nutriment.

MAN KNIFED IN SUDDEN ATTACK

East Indian Cut on Hand When Mysterious Assault Appears

Police are investigating the stabbing of Jogindar Singh by an unidentified white man on the corner of Douglas and Herald Streets at 5:30 o'clock last evening.

Jogindar was standing against a telephone pole talking to another East Indian also named Jogindar Singh, according to the story he told Sergeant George Varney, when two white men drove up in a large sedan. One of them leaped out, brandished a knife and made a lunge at Jogindar's face. The thrust fell short and inflicted a small cut on the East Indian's left hand, near the thumb.

He described the man as being dressed in dark clothes, clean shaven and wearing a light hat. The assailant leaped into the automobile and sped away before Jogindar or his companion were able to notice the licence number.

Jogindar, who lives at 2891 Maple Street, could think of no reason why anybody should want to assault him. He told Sergeant Varney that he had no trouble with others of his race or any white men.

GRAND CANAL BURSTS AND FLOODS SHANTUNG

SHANGHAI, July 26 (AP).—China's normally placid Grand Canal, for 2,000 years the country's greatest north-south waterway, became an instrument of wholesale destruction today, the swollen current suddenly bursting its banks at half a dozen places and lashing out into the green countryside of Southern Shantung.

Canadian Net Players Eliminated From Title Meet at Victoria Club

All of Dominion's Representatives Fade From Championship as Finalists Named—Wally Martin Drops Hard-Fought Match to Bennett—Finals This Afternoon

CANADA'S national tennis champions for 1935 will be ranking United States Pacific Coast net stars. Yesterday, in the semi-final rounds, Canada's small army of netters passed out of the Dominion championship picture, before the finer stroking and superior court play of visiting American racquet wielders, and as a consequence, today's finals will be all-American.

Wally Martin, Toronto, top-ranking Canadian of a few years ago, made a gallant fight to keep Canada in the title hunt, but was finally eliminated by Dick Bennett, curly-haired Berkeley star, in a five-set match. Martin's display of courage and fighting heart enabled him to share the applause with his opponent as the match concluded.

Shot Out of Cannon to a Watery End

OCEAN PARK, CALIF., July 26 (AP).—Cliff Gregg, advertised as the "human cannonball," was drowned here today after being shot from a cannon into the Pacific Ocean. A huge crowd at the Ocean Park Pier saw the tragedy.

Gregg sank and came up once, but before a waiting boat could reach him he went down again.

The cannon from which the "human cannonball" was shot is on the Ocean Park Pier. Three had been injured before in performing the hazardous stunt.

TROUBLE PERSISTS IN STATES OF MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, July 26 (AP).—Federal troops were on guard in two States tonight to preserve public order and the governors of the United States found themselves bogged in difficulties.

Demonstrations against local political rulers in Tabasco and Tamaulipas continued during the day, but at nightfall 1,000 agrarians who have been laying siege to Matamoros, in the latter State, indicated they would disband.

Queen Wilhelmina was believed strongly convinced that the gold standard should be maintained.

STILL RESISTING HIS EXTRADITION

CONCORD, N.H., July 26 (AP).—Captain Freeman Hatfield lost a step today in his fight against extradition for trial in the celebrated Gypsum Queen case, but planned a last-ditch stand against removal to Canada.

Judge George Morris dismissed a writ of habeas corpus for the seventy-four-year-old retired Canadian skipper and remanded him to the continued custody of United States officials. Hatfield is charged with defrauding the Dominion Government of $71,000.

TWO SMALL QUAKES

PROTEST SENT BY MANCHUKUO INCREASES TENSION IN ORIENT

Japanese Press Makes Charge That Soviet Union Is Encroaching to the Peril of Japan's Interests in China as Well as in Her Puppet State

Suggest Co-operation to Combat a Terrible Menace

MOSCOW, July 26 (CP-Havas).—Soviet-Japanese tension increased here today with a new protest received from Manchukuo over a frontier incident and news that the negotiations to settle Manchukuo's quarrel with Soviet-influenced outer Mongolia had collapsed.

Charges in the Japanese press that the Soviet Union is encroaching on both China and Manchukuo, to the "peril" of Japanese interests, likewise concerned Soviet Government leaders.

Hail Wipes Out Crops In Alberta

CALGARY, July 26 (AP).—For the second successive day, hail ripped into Southern Alberta crops today, striking southwest of High River and wiping out standing fields of grain on several farms.

Hail struck first today twelve miles southwest of High River and swept east between High River and Cayley. Fields in the district were reported covered with water from the heavy rains which accompanied the hail.

Meanwhile Tass, the Soviet news agency, announced that the Manchukuo-outer Mongolia negotiations over the alleged capture of a Japanese surveying party had been upset by the Manchukuo negotiators because outer Mongolia would not meet their demands to the fullest extent.

PLEASED WITH WELCOME HERE

Oregon Banker Expresses Appreciation of Courtesy of Victoria

Appreciation of the efforts of the tourist trade development association of Victoria and Vancouver Island, and of the courtesy of the police force towards making the stay of visitors to Victoria pleasant, is expressed in an article appearing in The Coast Bay Times. It recounts the impressions of Mr. and Mrs. Reidar Bugge, of Marshfield, Oregon. Mr. Bugge is manager of the Coos Bay National Bank at Marshfield.

So impressed were these visitors with the efforts of Victoria to make their stay agreeable, that they gave publicity to the city. The story, as published in The Marshfield Times, reads:

"We say 'Go to the City Hall and pay a dollar or two, to visitors who break our traffic regulations, but in Victoria, B.C., if you park overtime they welcome you to the city!'" declares one enthusiastic Marshfield businessman who has recently returned from a trip to the other end of the Coast highway.

"When tourists arrive in Victoria, they are met at the ferry dock by young girls playing bagpipes and giving a sincere welcome to the city."

Game Inspector Hurt in Accident

CHILLIWACK, B.C., July 26 (AP).—Inspector J. G. Cunningham, of the British Columbia Game Board, was in the hospital here today, with a possible fracture of the ankle, suffered yesterday at Siwash Creek when he slipped from a rock. He has been on a tour of principal lakes and fishing streams in company with Game Warden Arthur Butler, of Chilliwack.

RAILWAY BELT LANDS UNFIXED

Dispute Over Timber Rights Discloses Boundary Commission Not Appointed

Involved in a disagreement over the sale by the Dominion of timber lands at Port McNeill, in an area in which the Province claims rights, the Provincial Government, has agreed to sums raised by the sale being placed in trust pending settlement of the issue. Premier Pattullo announced yesterday.

Inquiry into the case uncovered the fact that a boundary commission, supposed to have been set up by the Dominion and the Province on the return of the British Columbia railway belt lands in 1931, had never been launched. Under the terms of that agreement, the Dominion was to name one commissioner, the Province another, and these would then choose a third member of the board.

Asked if the Province would move to launch the commission for determination of the exact boundaries of the railway belt lands, Premier Pattullo said the matter was under advisement, without definite action taken as yet. Formal protest on the McNeill timber sale has, however, gone forward to Ottawa.

Tennis Stars Assembled at Title Tournament Here

Pictured above are some of the top-ranking United States and Canadian court players assembled at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club courts, Fort Street, for the British Columbia and Canadian net championships, which have been in progress since Monday. Yesterday, American netters eliminated Canadian players making their final bids for National titles; and today's finals, which will bring the championship meet to a close, will be All-American. Play in the finals will commence at 1:15 o'clock.

LILLOOET FLOOD WATERS RECEDE

Conditions Almost Back to Normal At Fernbert Meadows—All Settlers Safe

PEMBERTON MEADOWS, B.C., July 26 (AP).—Flood waters of the Lillooet River, which covered 30,000 acres of farm land in this district to a depth of from three to six feet, have receded and conditions are almost back to normal. It was reported today.

Estimate of crop damage caused by the flood has not yet been estimated, but it is believed that one-half of the hay and potato crops may be saved.

Contrary to first reports, no bridges were washed away, but roads were badly damaged in many places.

The families of all settlers, though some had been temporarily marooned, were all reported safe.

Silver Purchase Is Dictated by Public Interest

President Roosevelt Gives White-Metal Bloc Non-Committal Reply in Answer to Request That Treasury Pursue Vigorously—Senators Hoping for Higher Prices

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP).—A non-committal observation that "public interest" will dictate administration of the Silver Purchase Act, was President Roosevelt's reply today to the Senate silver "bloc."

His views on obtaining "our common objective of a wider monetary use of silver" were outlined politely but firmly in a letter to forty-six senators who had asked him to pursue the act's goal "enthusiastically."

Some senators hold that the treasury should buy silver until its price reaches $1.29 an ounce or enough is purchased to pile up one-third as much monetary silver as gold. Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat, Oklahoma) estimated that only the halfway mark of the $3,000,000,000 purchase goal has been attained.

WOULD RANK WITH GOLD
Thomas has predicted freely that long before the full $3,000,000,000 reached the treasury, the price would be up to $1.29 because of depleted world stocks. That, he contended, would make the white metal rank with gold as a world monetary unit and serve also to increase currency circulation in this country provided the administration issued silver certificates against it.

Recently Thomas complained that the treasury, instead of forcing up the price, had actually beaten it down from 81 cents an ounce to 67 3/4 cents.

OTTAWA, July 26 (AP).—Laval's extension of the intermediate or treaty tariff to certain Central and South American republics was announced today. Costa Rica, Panama, Haiti, Guatemala and Bolivia are the countries to which Canada has extended the advantages of the treaty tariff.

In all cases, treaty extensions are in the nature of a quid pro quo, the countries concerned agreeing, following negotiations carried on by the British minister in their respective capitals, to give Canadian exports most-favored-nation treatment.

MAKING LAST PEACE EFFORTS

League of Nations Officials Still Feel Hopeful of Averting War

LONDON, July 26 (AP).—Europe's diplomats tonight pushed eleventh hour efforts to get Premier Mussolini to accept economic concessions, instead of military victory in Ethiopia, but indications were that the Duce would accept nothing less than a protectorate.

That, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia has said repeatedly, is unthinkable. He is determined to defend complete independence.

AWAITING STATEMENT
Great Britain awaited an official statement of Italy's claims and charges against the African nation, but it learned unofficially that Duce would insist upon the protectorate.

The extraordinary session of the League of Nations council to consider the dispute has been called for July 31 or August 1.

Ethiopia was authoritatively reported unwilling to revive the Italo-Ethiopian commission, which broke up at Scheveningen, The Netherlands, over frontier questions, Italy proposed its territorial telegrams to Addis Ababa, Geneva and other capitals yesterday, but still insisted it could not treat the dispute as a whole.

ANOTHER ENCOUNTER
The Stefani (Italian) News Agency reported from Djibouti, French Somaliland, another "bloody encounter" between Ethiopians and native troops in British Somaliland. Three British Somalis were killed, Stefani said, and asserted "grave repercussions" were feared.

Only some new, positive step by Mussolini limiting Italy's demands to economic concessions can open the way to peaceful solution, informed sources here said.

MAY YET YIELD
GENEVA, July 26 (AP).—Indications that Benito Mussolini would be represented at the forthcoming council meeting kindled hope in League of Nations officials, this evening that the Italo-Ethiopian conflict might yet yield to arbitration.

PARTY OFFERS SANE REFORMS
Hon. H. H. Stevens Makes Speech During Train Stop At Fort William

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., July 26 (AP).—From a hastily improvised platform at the railway station here, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstruction Party leader, tonight gave his third Ontario campaign speech.

The desire of the new party which he heads is "to give the people a chance to say if they want sane and active reform," Mr. Stevens asserted. If so, he offered them the programme of the Reconstruction Party as outlined in his manifesto.

"For two years I have been carrying on the fight for the forgotten man," Mr. Stevens told his listeners. "But it is not my fight only. It is your battle. Your rights are involved."

ONE CLASS PROSPEROUS
In searching for underlying causes of conditions he had found that in Canada, a rich country, the merchant, worker, farmer and "white collar" man all were suffering. One class alone was prospering—the men who control credit or who dominate industry and commerce.

Equity and fair dealing seemed to have gone out of business, and "the rule of might" prevailed.

NO LONGER SILENT
"Two years ago," Mr. Stevens stated, "I declared I would no longer remain silent." He told of the work of the price spreads and mass buying committee which he headed, and which subsequently resolved into a royal commission.

Now, he declared, he was out for "sane and active reform" and was in that spirit that the Reconstruction Party offered its programme to the Canadian people.

Makes It Four For the Season
VANCOUVER, July 26 (AP).—William Campbell made his fourth rescue yesterday when he dived into Burrard Inlet fully clothed and saved Lewis Patvini, eleven, from drowning.

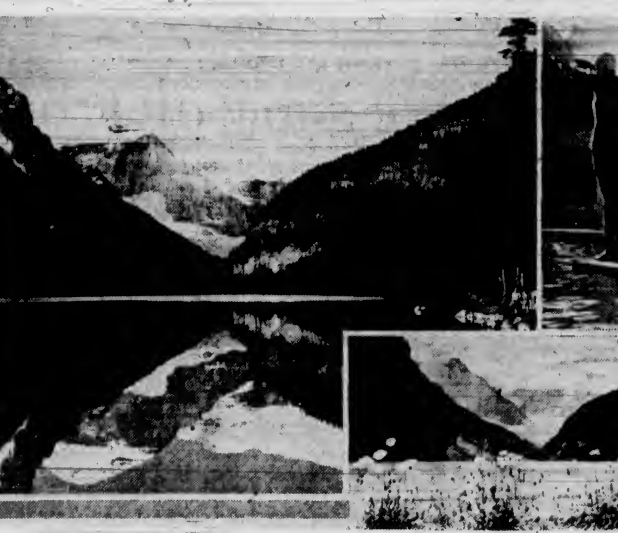

The boy got into difficulties and Campbell, hearing his cries, came to his aid. He had difficulty in reaching shore with the boy, being hampered by his clothing.

RACING MAN RICH PRIZE FOR ROBBERS
CHICAGO, July 26 (AP).—George W. Leeds, of New York, wealthy racing stable owner, reported to police of suburban Arlington Heights that four men posing as Federal narcotic inspectors today bound and gagged him and robbed him of $15,000 in jewelry and $5,000 in cash.

Leeds said the men took four platinum rings set with diamonds, one set with a large ruby, a platinum watch set with diamonds and rubies, valued at $5,000 and various other articles.

NO MEN AVAILABLE
HANOVER, Ont., July 26 (AP).—Hanover has only five men on relief now, and these are physically unfit to do heavy work. Demand for farm labor has been great in this district, but no more men are available.

Some Beauty Spots at Lake Louise

Poets have raved about the beauty of incomparable Lake Louise, and celebrated artists have been distraught in their efforts to transfer its ever-changing shades and contours to canvas but, artists and poets notwithstanding, it is a rare person indeed who can look on the beauty of this gem of the Rockies without experiencing a feeling of deep respect for Nature's handiwork. Above are shown some of the reasons for the popularity of Lake Louise with tourists and the traveling public generally.

WATER REVENUE DOWN SLIGHTLY

Reduction Much Less Than First Expected as Result Of Lower Rate

A report on the first month's operation of the new Summer irrigation rates completed by the city's waterworks department yesterday disclosed that the drop in revenue was only half of what had originally been expected, and probably would have been even much less had there been no rainy weather during the latter part of June and the early part of July.

Revenue dropped $1,500 during the month of June to July 15, as compared with an estimated drop of $3,000. This decrease in the revenue due to the reduction in rates is more than taken care of by the increase in revenue experienced during the first six months of the year.

If the dry weather continues, it is quite possible that the decrease in revenue during the next month will be much lower than that for the past month.

SUMMER RATES
The Summer irrigation rates will continue until the end of September. They were instituted as an experiment to ascertain if the city's water system could stand the increased volume, and just how much revenue the city would lose if residents were encouraged to use more water at a lower rate.

So far there have been no complaints of lack of pressure except from those districts which have always suffered from a lack of pressure due to physical circumstances that can only be overcome by an improvement in the service such as is being carried out on Cold Harbor Road.

SAYS POOR ROADS LIMIT TRAVELING

Parkville Resident Declares Her California Friends Refuse to Motor on Island

Although she is an ardent booster of Vancouver Island, Mrs. E. C. May, of San Marino, Cal., who spends the Summer months of each year at her Summer home at Parkville, in an interview at the Empress Hotel last night, lamented the poor condition of the roads.

She explained that many of her California friends who came to Victoria this year had refused to motor up-Island to see her owing to the bad roads. Mrs. May said she also knew of several parties who terminated their stay on the Island earlier than planned because they found "no good roads running out of Victoria."

FINDS ROADS WORSE
Each year when she returns to the Island, Mrs. May finds the roads 50 per cent worse than the year before, she declared. Mrs. May said she considered the lack of good roads on the Island the result of shortsightedness.

While young persons manage to endure the bumps and jolts resulting from motoring over bad roads, older visitors and those with more money to spend on their holidays refuse to subject themselves to such inconveniences, and consequently spend little time on the Island, Mrs. May pointed out.

Mrs. May is the wife of Lieutenant Commander May, United States Navy. She is in Victoria with her mother, Mrs. Jacob Martenson, of Oak Park, Ill., and her niece, Katherine Carr, of Valence, France, who have been visiting at Parkville with her for the last several weeks.

MRS. PRYDE PASSES
NANAIMO, July 26.—Mrs. Margaret Pryde, aged seventy-nine, wife of Walter Pryde, native of Scotland, and resident of Nanaimo and vicinity for the past forty-seven years, died at her home, two miles north of Nanaimo on the Island Highway, tonight. She is survived by one son, Charles Glen Pryde, Nanaimo, and a daughter, Mrs. R. O. Miller, living in California.

Rogers and Post Arrive at Ranch

VARMEJO MARK, N.M., July 26 (AP).—Will Rogers and Wiley Post arrived here in the famous flyer's new plane tonight for a short vacation on the famous Bartlett Ranch, now owned by Harry Chandler, publisher of The Los Angeles Times.

The humorist and the aviator were accompanied by Mrs. Rogers. The flying vacationists said they will return to Los Angeles within a few days.

CITY PROSPERS BY PUBLICITY

Victoria Bureau Supplies News Service to Papers On Pacific Coast

Besides having sent out paragraphs and articles to 1,077 newspapers, newspapers and travel periodicals since the beginning of April, the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau has developed a news bulletin service from Victoria. Newspapers all over the Pacific Coast are now publishing weekly fishing bulletins on their sport pages. Industrial, financial and commercial information has also been sent out for both newspapers and radio services.

"Where at one time Victoria used to be fortunate to secure a paragraph in a newspaper, we are now able to secure full-page magazine features," the publicity officials state.

Supplementary information and pictures are being sent for newspapers, while Frank Giolma, special writer for the publicity bureau, has had his articles, during the past several years, in newspapers and periodicals in many parts of the world.

TRAVEL INCREASES

Encouraging to bureau officials was the result of a check-up recently that showed about 80 per cent of the material sent out had been published. Also gratifying to Mr. Warren was the report that for July, up to the present time, travel to Vancouver Island was already 17 per cent above that of 1934.

The bureau considers California as the most fertile field for publicity, with Washington next, and then Oregon. But stories of Vancouver Island have been sent far and wide, and since the bureau made a drive to feature the Island in Honolulu, in co-operation with the newspapers there, travel from Honolulu to Victoria has doubled.

A number of articles have also been placed in newspapers in the Orient.

Car Association Going to Winnipeg

PREMIER BACKS TARIFF VIEWS

Work of Economic Council Has Proved Valuable, Government Affirms

In a statement issued to the press yesterday, Premier Pattullo replied to an editorial in The Colonist in reference to the work of the British Columbia Economic Council. The Premier said:

"My attention has been drawn to an editorial in The Colonist criticizing the work of the Economic Council. I am afraid that the editorial economist of The Colonist has not given sufficient study to the economic position of British Columbia, otherwise I do not think that he would have belittled the important work which the council has been carrying on."

TRADE EFFECT
"The facts are that through tariffs and freight rates the economic position of this Province has been continuously handicapped. Beyond question, we have been forced to buy in dear markets while selling in competitive markets. We are compelled to pay annual tribute to the thickly-populated provinces of Canada, and while we are now the third manufacturing province of the Dominion, we have only attained this position through the resourcefulness of this Province and in spite of artificial handicaps."

"I believe that the work of Dr. W. A. Carrothers and his staff is of most valuable character, as it pictures very closely the economic position of the Province, and will consequently be of assistance in the formulation of policy to meet the difficulties confronting us," the Premier said.

Asked if the Economic Council had made a study of the incidence of Federal, Provincial and municipal taxation within the province, the Premier replied that such a study was being undertaken by the Treasury.

MAYOR SPEAKS AT GATHERING
David Leeming Is Guest of Honor at Historic Pageant Held in Seattle

Speaking at the historic pageant at Alki Beach, Seattle, on the occasion of the celebration commemorating the landing of Captain Vancouver on Bainbridge Island, Mayor David Leeming, guest of the celebration committee, addressed the gathering as follows:

"We are united in common ideals of peace and friendship. We are two nations with one language and one continent. Canada and the United States together can go far toward keeping peace and prosperity among the people of the earth, and averting the devastation of war."

With other dignitaries, Mayor Leeming was guest of honor at the pageant which was part of West street dancing.

The pageant dealt with the naming of historic points in the Puget Sound region by Captain Vancouver and his gaily company, the roles being taken by West Seattle Hi-Yu boosters, proud in white wig, or red with paint if they happened to be slated for Indians.

There were bits in the pageant about Peter Puget, and the stalwart Whidbey, and the naming of Vashon Island and Restoration Point and Discovery Bay.

After the pageant, honor guests gathered for a pioneer dinner at the Stockade Hotel, followed by the formal Hi-Yu opening with speeches and greetings at 7:15; an outdoor smoker, bridge tournament and street dancing.

Seattle's Hi-Yu celebration on Thursday, Governor Clarence D. Martin, Lieut.-Governor Vic Myers, Mayor Charles L. Smith and Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Kate Stevens Bates, daughter of the first territorial Governor of Washington, pioneers, dignitaries and navy officials and others were there.

The pageant dealt with the naming of historic points in the Puget Sound region by Captain Vancouver and his gaily company, the roles being taken by West Seattle Hi-Yu boosters, proud in white wig, or red with paint if they happened to be slated for Indians.

There were bits in the pageant about Peter Puget, and the stalwart Whidbey, and the naming of Vashon Island and Restoration Point and Discovery Bay.

After the pageant, honor guests gathered for a pioneer dinner at the Stockade Hotel, followed by the formal Hi-Yu opening with speeches and greetings at 7:15; an outdoor smoker, bridge tournament and street dancing.

Glorious Display Seen by Visitors At Flower Show

Alderman James Adam Formally Opens Victoria Horticultural Society's Annual Exhibition at Willows—Gardens One of City's Best-Advertised—Exhibitors Praised

VICTORIA'S claim to the title as "The City of Flowers" had further justification yesterday in the magnificent display of bloom staged by the Horticultural Society in its twelfth annual summer flower show at the Willows. The big exhibition hall is a kaleidoscope of living color, magnificently representative of what gardens of this latitude the world over have to offer at this time of the year.

"Such a show would surprise the New Zealanders who, when I was there, frequently referred to me as 'the visitor from the land of snow and ice,'" said Alderman James Adam in the address he gave when formally declaring the exhibition open. "I was glad to be able to tell them that in Victoria we enjoyed the kind of climate where they could cut the grass 365 days in the year."

Bringing regrets from Mayor Leeming, who was unable to attend, owing to absence from the city, Alderman Adam expressed his pleasure in finding such a wealth of competitive and non-competitive material on display. Especially did he congratulate the Victoria parks board and the school board for the excellent displays they had staged in the exhibition. Speaking to the exhibitors generally, he said that while they could not all win first prizes, they could all feel that they had made a contribution to a very successful and beautiful show, and next year they could perhaps compete more successfully.

WIDE VARIETY

A throng of visitors was already in the hall when President H. Whitehead introduced Alderman Adam and others who took part in the brief opening proceedings. Mr. Whitehead appealed for more wholehearted support from citizens. The flower show was a wonderful advertisement for Victoria, and should be encouraged to the utmost. It was with the idea of making them accessible to everyone that the admission fee had been so considerably reduced this year.

W. A. McKenzie, former provincial minister of mines, volunteered his impressions of the show. As an ardent flower lover he attested whenever possible. One of the things that was helping to make Vancouver Island famous was the fact that such beautiful flowers and vegetables and fruit could be grown here. The society should really give every encouragement to continue these shows, and was much to be congratulated on the beauty and success of the present exhibition. Despite the display in the early part of the year, the gardens had made a fine showing. California was looked upon as a state of beautiful flowers, but he had been told by a recent visitor from there that Victoria had far better.

Also on the platform at the moment were three other members of the executive of the Victoria Horticultural Society, E. M. White, Dr. A. V. Price and P. R. Lightfoot.

GREAT VARIETY

With the several handsome trade displays, garden exhibits, group and individual competitive entries and decorated tables, a splendid panorama of bloom was spread for the eye of the visitor.

One of the novelty classes also accounted for variety in the general effect, this being the creation of a color scheme with the idea of providing a choice of background for those who wished to enter their exhibits in any of these settings. Three colors, brown, black and hyacinth blue, were provided, eight classes being offered for each background. The results were extremely interesting, most of the competitors who chose the blue background favoring blue and pink flowers; those using the brown favoring oranges, yellows and reds, and the black being selected to show off scarlets, pinks and blues.

NON-COMPETITIVE

In the very centre of the hall, framed in wet mosses and fragrant ferns and other native woodland plants, is a lily pond arranged by the Lake View Aquatic Gardens, Lake Hill. The wax-like water lilies are beautiful varieties: a deep pink called Rose-arey, a lighter pink called Helen Fowler, the red and white "Conqueror," a watermelon red cup-shaped variety known as James Bryden, the deep red Escarboucle, a very handsome lemon yellow "Sunrise," and a pure white called Gladstonians.

At a little distance from the pond are four pyramid-shaped blocks of flowers and foliage measuring ten by twelve or fourteen feet. Two of these contain the Victoria City parks' displays, very handsome and artistically arranged by the parks superintendent, W. H. Warren, and George Attwood, nurseryman. One of the stands is entirely filled with tube-rose begonias and ferns from Beacon Hill, and the second is composed of maidenhair fern, sweet peas and seagrasse.

Similar blocks are filled with displays by William F. Salisbury of Gordon Head, and the Victoria school board. The latter, arranged by the school gardener, Charles Bennett, should be a source of pride to the citizens, for less than twenty-two varieties of perennials and annuals being shown among the artistically-arranged vases: Perennial phloxes, two varieties of verbena, zinnias, lilies, sweet auburn and numerous other blooms, the whole tapering to a point in the high basket of plume poppy and heliotrope.

DECORATIVE PLANTS

Mr. Salisbury's collection, arranged by his gardener, William Hamilton, was also non-competitive. It was notable specially for the variety of ferns and decorative-leaved plants: Coleus, the hop-like belaprons of brownish scarlet color (native to California and the only one shown in the exhibition), em-

Is Getting Early Training

This young chap is starting early to learn the business of paternal responsibilities, and seems rather proud of it. However, his young charge does not seem to join with him in the pleasure he is having. The picture was taken by Mrs. R. Robinson, 572 Michigan Street, and received honorable mention in The Daily Colonist June Snapshot Contest.

NINETY VARIETIES

Some ninety varieties of carnations, many of the striped varieties, were included in the brilliant display arranged by James King, of Ladysmith. Among the rarest were the narrow and white Alice Forbes, a pure white called Bonnie Mary, the deep cream and red Zebra, a rose and lemon Hollywood, and the beautiful clear cerise Autocrat.

Just inside the main entrance is J. D. Hallam's trade display of Fuschias, sedums and succulents. There are about twenty varieties of Fuchsia alone, several in the familiar purple and red, but others in curious combinations of salmon and coral, white and scarlet, or two shades of red. There are pendulous types particularly suitable for hanging baskets and window boxes, and others, like the free-blooming "Abbey Fargate," which would make pretty plants in pots. Most of the succulents have been imported from California, about twenty varieties in all, and many of them very quaint and odd.

R. O. Lamb, of James Bay, made a good trade display of begonias and carnations.

WOMEN'S ENTRIES

Two of the biggest group entries in the show are the work of women. The Women's Auxiliary of the Victoria Horticultural Society won first prize with a striking arrangement of every conceivable variety of mid-summer bloom, surrounded by budleia, delphinium, Glarkia, phlox, gladioli, and tiger lily. The Victoria Women's Institute display, on the immediately opposite east wall, has also inspired much admiration.

The south wall is filled with the three big garden displays. D. Patterson, gardener for C. P. Hill, of "Hillhaven," Esquimalt, taking first prize; L. Baldwin, gardener for Miss Agnew at "Shaloom," Rockland Avenue, winning second; and Evan Jones' collection being placed third.

FLY-EATING PLANT

It is perhaps not generally known that Vancouver Island possesses a fly-eating plant, but one of these unusual specimens, collected in the neighborhood of Cowichan Lake, is shown. It is the "Sundew," or "Venus fly-trap." Although harmless-looking, it spells death to flies. Among the novelties shown is a double dwarf lobelia entered by V. W. Walters.

Although it is early in the season for vegetables, there are some big cabbages, chard, broccoli, and peas and beans. A few tomatoes are also shown, and parsnips, radishes, beets, onions, rhubarb, Summer squash, and crinkly cabbage are shown. Fourteen entries of peas were reported. Vancouver Island hitherto has not enjoyed much reputation for growing gooseberries, but some particularly large clean fruit is shown. In this section also are black currants, logans, raspberries, peaches, early apples, and cherries.

TEA AND MUSIC

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Horticultural Society is serving tea in a roped-off enclosure, and a band dispenses music. The Canadian Legion musicians will play again this evening.

Tonight at 9 o'clock, Reeve R. W. Mayhew, of Oak Bay, will distribute the prizes, and an auction of the flowers, fruit and vegetables will follow.

Judging of the exhibits was in charge of the following: Flowers—George Robinson, of Elk Lake, and W. Darling, Victoria. Artistic Color Arrangements—Mrs. Biggerstaff Wilson and Mrs. R. M. Palmer.

Vegetables and Fruit—E. W. White, of the Department of Agriculture, and Alfred Green (Duncan).

BANFF, July 26 (C.P.).—Five-year-old David Spencer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Spencer, of Banff, was drowned today after falling into waters of the Bow River from a wharf where he had been playing.

WIFE OF EXECUTIVE AT FAMOUS CHICAGO HOTEL VISITS CITY

After enjoying numerous visits to local antique shops and places of interest, Mrs. Walter L. Gregory, wife of the vice-president of the famous Palmer House, of Chicago, left Victoria yesterday afternoon for Vancouver. She had been staying at the Empress Hotel.

For fifty years the old Palmer House has been one of Chicago's outstanding hotels. Ten years ago it was rebuilt, to become the third largest hotel in the world, with Walter Gregory as manager.

ART LECTURES ARE CONCLUDED

Arthur Lismer Gives Instructive Talk on Self-Expression in Children

A plea to allow children greater scope in self-expression through the medium of art was made by Arthur Lismer in the third and last of a series of public lectures given at the Victoria High School last night in connection with the Summer School classes being conducted here. His subject was "Art in Children."

He explained how children expressed themselves in symbols long before they were able to express themselves clearly by talking, and decried the method of teaching which permitted the adult to impose himself on the child, rather than teaching the child by leading out from the pupil.

HAS MANY CLUES

In the early creative works of a child were to be found many clues to his personality. Valuable information could be gained for vocational guidance in later years, he said.

The child, if left to express himself in his own free way, would give a clear picture of his environment, his desires and his character.

Mr. Lismer then showed lantern slides of child art, starting from the age of two and progressing to the age of fourteen.

TORONTO CLASSES
The speaker also told of the work that was being carried out in Toronto along the lines of free self-expression, and showed pictures of children attending the art gallery on Saturday mornings and creating work in their own way, knowing they were not to be judged for examinations, or to maintain a class median. When left to produce works in this manner, it was surprising to see what wonderful results could be achieved, both as to natural conception of art as well as expressing one's own individuality.

NEED ART GALLERY
Mr. Lismer deplored the fact that Victoria had no art gallery and possessed a museum so crowded and congested that it left no room for a free enjoyment of the pieces of work assembled there.

John Kyle, director of the Summer School, who officiated as chairman, expressed the hope that similar child classes would be formed here as in operation in Toronto, and suggested that the Victoria High School might be put to greater use than at present by using it on Saturdays for such a class, and even using the corridors for art galleries.

Rebuild and Remodel with BRITISH COLUMBIA RED CEDAR

NATURALLY WEATHER-PROOF IN ALL SEASONS . . .

SHINGLES

SIDING

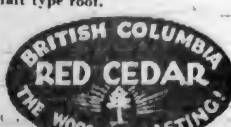

THERE is no substitute for the utility and beauty of British Columbia Red Cedar. The natural oils in this weather-defying wood act as a preservative against extremes in climate and violent weather conditions.

By a hundred years of varied use in home and building construction, British Columbia Red Cedar is proven beyond all doubt, to be the most economical material for roofs, sidewalls and all phases in building where extra long life and beauty are desirable.

CONSIDER ITS INSULATION VALUE . . .

British Columbia Red Cedar possesses the greatest insulation value of all popular roofing and sidewall materials. For roofs, British Columbia Red Cedar shingles is a 38 per cent. greater insulator than slate, 69% greater than tile and 73% greater than an asphalt type roof.

On sidewalls the insulation value of Red Cedar siding is equal to 12 inches of solid brick or 36 inches of concrete when laid over three-quarter inch cedar sheathing with paper between on two-by-four studding with lath and plaster inside.

It is always advisable to consult a reputable Architect.

EMPIRE MARKETS

Mr. Mackenzie King objects to the Ottawa trade agreements as they stand, and yet there is no question that they have led to a substantial increase in intra-Empire commerce. It is possible, were a series of comparisons to be made, it would be found that Canada had been, and continues to be, proportionately the greater gainer. There is no doubt about the measure of accomplishment through these trade treaties, and due tribute is paid to them in Great Britain. Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the British Board of Trade, has given to the House of Commons a heartening picture. As a result of the Ottawa agreements trade between Great Britain and the Dominions has increased to the extent of $270,000,000, divided into $125,000,000 of increased exports and $145,000,000 of increased imports.

These figures illustrate that the trade increases are not one-sided. Moreover, they mean the employment of more ships for carrying purposes. In commenting on the effect of the agreements, Mr. Runciman said: "These (Ottawa) agreements have led to the reduction of tariffs and to the purchase of a much larger amount of United Kingdom goods, though I feel bound to add that our market to Empire goods is free, whereas Empire markets are far from free to our goods."

"HIGH THINKING"

Dr. Inge, the late Dean of St. Paul's and as noted a figure as there is among modern-day clerics, recently preached the University sermon at St. Mary's, Oxford. It was in no sense a doleful utterance, but it was monitory in urging the undergraduates to hold fast to what is tried and proved in the experience of the past. He deplores the wane in "high thinking" nowadays, and the reason he says is "that it cannot flourish without liberty," and liberty, over the greater part of Christendom, has been for the time being destroyed. Since "high thinking" does not exist from Strasbourg to Vladivostok, he sees a tremendous responsibility resting on the British people, and above all on their seats of learning, "to hold fast to that which is good in our common inheritance."

Dr. Inge sees "monstrous and grotesque results" being produced in art and letters because there has been a rejection of all the old canons of beauty and seamliness. There is no standard left save a kind of utilitarianism, but he admits there is a generous wish to see human affairs conducted more sensibly for the benefit of those who shall come after. Popular writers, he says, compare badly with the Victorians. Few of them have any grasp of the nobility of human nature at its best. "They paint grey on grey—a drab and unworthy picture of human life." He deplores the fact that they ignore religion and that they exaggerate the importance of sex in a decent, well-ordered life. That, he says, is "bad art because it distorts reality, and I fear it must make many readers picture life as a much poorer thing than it really is."

Dr. Inge points out the remedy for the lack of "high thinking" in these latter days. It is in the hands of the people themselves. They can read and re-read the old books. "No nation," he says, "has a more glorious literature than our own, and a Christian may thank God for most of our poetry, and most of our fiction, too. Our young people should not be in such a hurry to throw all their parents' household gods on to the scrap-heap." Then Dr. Inge goes on to say:

PUBLIC CREDIT AND RETRENCHMENT

The terms national credit and public credit are ordinarily used to denote pretty much the same thing. Personal credit refers, of course, to the case of an individual who has acquired it by pursuing a policy of energy, thrift, and sense in the conduct of his affairs, and public credit similarly is the result of wise and competent management of the affairs of any governing body. National credit is created by the energy, hard work, and good sense of the people of the nation, and when these qualities are exhibited in their daily activities and in the conduct of the government. The proof of the existence of this national credit may be seen in the value put upon the government's securities in the money market.

In the management of private property and in the preservation of personal credit, frugality and thrift are necessary, and there can be no such difference between governments and individuals as to justify a different code of morals and conduct in each case. How many governments in Canada or in its Provinces have kept expenditure within the limits of revenue? No one will deny that the practice of increasing the public debt has been abused by many governments. In many cases they have pursued the policy of mortgaging the public revenues, apparently with the belief, or hope, that posterity may be able and perhaps willing to pay off such debts. When posterity has arrived upon the scene they very plausibly follow the example of their fathers, and rely in their turn upon a new posterity. These again, whether they like it or not, will find themselves obliged to depend, with whatever show of confidence they can command, upon the good-will of a still more remote posterity. The imprudence of allowing politicians to draw bills on posterity has been justly compared to the folly of giving unlimited credit to a prodigal son. There is a limit to this, however. When an extravagant government finds that it cannot induce the public to take up its new loans, what is to be done? The government's needs are pressing. Perhaps there is a considerable sum of money which has been set aside to meet certain interest payments as they fall due. Why not seize this money and use it to meet the present emergency? If this is done, even under solemn promise and protestation that the money will be immediately replaced it may lead to the destruction of the public credit.

In years gone by any political party in the Dominion, or in one of the Provinces, which offered to the electors a policy and programme of retrenchment and economy was pretty sure to attract a strong following among the electors. Public expenditures were closely scrutinized in those days, and an extravagant administration was often hard put to it in explaining the condition of the public finance. In these latter days, however, for reasons not unconnected with the great modern extensions of the electoral franchise, governments have been only too ready to go in for lavish expenditure of public money. Indeed there is hardly a word about retrenchment or economy in the manifestoes of those parties which have already spoken to the public about the issues of the approaching election. On the contrary there is much talk of increased expenditures for this, that, and the other; and there has been an unofficial Liberal promise, or threat, that we may shortly look for an issue of some hundreds of millions of dollars fresh from the Government printing presses.

In this posture of affairs when several Provincial Governments appear to have exhausted their credit in the money market, when the finances of the Dominion itself constitute a problem of considerable magnitude, there are politicians who talk of the national credit as if it were inexhaustible, and of a mythical national "dividend" that might readily be cut into innumerable slices for distribution like an indefinitely large melon. Canada needs, more than anything else of a political nature at the present moment, a Government with enough iron in its composition to face the fact that the country, if it is to remain solvent, must forget the mythical national dividend, stop talking at random about our illimitable resources and our marvelous undeveloped wealth, and concentrate upon the job of making ends meet. Retrenchment and economy should be the chief features of the Conservative policy and platform.

GEORGE WILLIAM RUSSELL

It is not only Ireland, but the world that has lost a great journalist, but perhaps a greater poet, in the death of George William Russell. He was a man of many parts, for he was an economist and a painter in addition to his other qualifications. An idealist, a co-founder of the famous Abbey Theatre, and it is claimed for him that he did as much for the awakening of Ireland's economic and social life as any man of his day. It is as a poet that he will be best remembered. What characterized his poetry was the expression of fundamental truths. He was undoubtedly the greatest religious poet of his time. The conviction expressed in what he wrote always was that of man's identity with the Divine Power. His thoughts embraced the beautiful whether he was writing poetry or that delicate prose for which he was noted. Literature has lost one of its foremost sons of the present generation in his passing. His memory, to those who admired his works, will remain, to quote a line of his own, "one with twilight's dream."

THE OCEAN SPEAKS

I loosened every mood of the deep
On him, a child and sick for sleep
Through the long watches that no time can measure
When I drove him deafened and choked and blind
At the wave tops, cut and spun by the wind
Lashing him face and eyes with my displeasure
I opened him all the gulle of the seas—
Their sudden swift-sprung treacheries
To be fought or forestalled or dared or dismissed
With laughter.

I showed him worth by folly concealed
And the flaw in the soul that chance revealed
(Lessons remembered—to bear truth thereafter).

Note and Comment

Ambition is but avarice on stilts, and masked—Lander.

DAVID DEFENDS DAVID

Dear R. B. D.—As a regular reader of your interesting and well-written column, I have frequently felt "my dander rise" by your rather flippant remarks concerning the character, the record and the pretensions of David Lloyd George. I question quite seriously whether you have much knowledge of the gentleman outside of what you may have read in the Tory press—which for pure unadulterated bitterness and rank dishonesty beats anything which I have read from Moscow, Rome or Berlin.

For nearly half a century, now, I have followed the career of the man, who, whatever his failings (and he may have them aplenty), has consistently stood up for the cause of the under-dog, and the man who undoubtedly during the World War saved England from the utter disaster to which the "wait and see" policy of Mr. Asquith was inevitably leading her.

In your column this morning you describe this man, whom many of your English readers hold in such enduring regard, as "a certain Welsh agitator," a demonstrated demagogue, an irresponsible demagogue, to gratify whose inordinate and unquenchable ambition, the people of England may shortly become engaged in "fratricidal strife."

Now, sir, I ask you frankly (and in my personal dealing with you I have found you to be essentially fair in your judgments), supposing the Canadian people were accustomed to reading in one of the daily papers in the Old Land such a tirade of abuse concerning Mr. Mackenzie King, Mr. Hon. R. B. Bennett, or any other public man of this Dominion, think you not that such readers to whatever party they might belong politically would be justifiably incensed at this wanton and unnecessary abuse.

I freely acknowledge that the writer of such a column as yours must be often at a loss for subject matter for the daily round and not too trivial task. I always delight in your sane and sensible remarks on general topics, even when I sometimes disagree with your point of view, so that I shrink from indulging in anything like carping criticism—but, dear R. B. D., don't you think that there are demagogues enough in Canada; aren't there agitators that are not Welsh, and make the wrong side up? When you might employ your pen, or does distance lend enchantment to the view? I know it is safer to call attention to "rotteness in the State of Denmark" than it is to shrill offensiveness in our own particular bailiwicks. Fortunately the English people are accustomed to this from the time of the first demagogue, the rant of abuse of any people who on this earth may dwell, and like the old Irishman whose little fellow was beating him up unmercifully, remarked when he was on the shoulders of a protesting friend: "Ah, well, it places her, and it don't hurt O!" Haven't you noticed, dear R. B. D., how the dog has felt it incumbent upon itself to bark at the moon, the ancient luminary keeps to its task of shining with all the serenity of unconcern?

D. G. TUCKWELL.

The old woman had a perfect right to kiss her cow, because such a salutation was to her taste. Our David has a perfect right to defend the Celtic David because that is in accordance with his nature, but sometimes tastes differ. All we know about Mr. Hon. David Lloyd George is what he has read about him—and that is plenty—and the more we read about him the less we think of him as a public man. There is no doubt at all about the outstanding mental qualities of the big little man. Neither is there any doubt about his intense emotional qualities and his ability to play upon the heart strings of poetical people like our friend David and all the rest of the Celtic fringe and many of the British people on the edge of that fringe. But Mr. George seems to us to be lacking in one thing which is generally characteristic of the Celtic tribes. That is loyalty to friends and leaders. Mr. George has been loyal to his friends and colleagues only as long as fealty to principle was in accord with his personal ambitions.

It may be true that the late Lord Asquith failed as leader of a Liberal Government at a crisis in the affairs of the British Empire and of the world, but the manner in which his downfall was accomplished cannot be regarded as anything but a base betrayal of political and personal friendship. It may be true that as Prime Minister Mr. George, by his magnetic and inspiring leadership, was largely instrumental in stirring the British nation and the other allied nations into effective action and ultimately winning the war; but it is also true that later on the man who helped to win the war gave the nation betrayed his government by playing a Socialist Government in power and keeping it in power until it had brought the nation to the verge of ruin. Those actions demonstrated the opportunism of the man and the nature of his principles of rule or ruin. First he betrayed his leader and then he tried to betray his country. All these facts are on record—and whatever the truth of the whole matter, they are proof of both personal and political disloyalty.

The ruling passion of the man all through life has been ambition. In pursuit of money as Prime Minister he sold titles and honors and accumulated an immense political fortune.

DOUGLAS SOCIAL CREDIT

Sir,—If this controversy with Mr. Percival is to bear any fruit it is essential that he should know something about Douglas Social Credit, a distinction he now lacks. It is such a lack of knowledge, doubtless, that causes him to state that Mr. McKinnon and myself differ over "debt-free money" and the national dividend, etc., immediately following statements by both Mr. McKinnon and myself on both these matters. The English language having failed, apparently, as a means of communication between myself and Mr. Percival, I request permission to point out that the following are the only proposals of Douglas Social Credit:

1. Creation of debt-free money at a rate exactly equal to our growth in physical wealth, and its introduction to the economic system by:

2. A national dividend, which shall be an addition to the wages or other income of every man, woman or child, in addition to purchasing power to correspond with the growth of the capital wealth of our country.

3. A discount paid to the purchaser of the cost of all purchases of consumer goods, and its introduction by the English co-operatives.

Now these proposals are Douglas Social Credit, and these only are supported by all members of the Douglas movement and many outside it in all parts of the world. One hopes that your readers will not be further afflicted by Mr. Percival's statements that I, or McKinnon, have "abandoned" them, for such a statement is utter nonsense. His confusion of Aberhart with Douglas is another example of his ignorance.

In his last letter the learned statement appeared, "The terrible burden of public and private debt, the bad distribution of the world's supply of gold, deflation of currencies, inflation of debts caused by low prices of commodities, all helped to bring about the world-wide depression." Here again we see that if only Mr. Percival were sufficiently instructed in the matter he discusses he would know that this is also the general contention of Major Douglas, except that Douglas, in common with most informed economists, disregards gold entirely. Inflation, not of currencies, of course, is of little importance; but of bank credit, is the cause naturally, of the fall of prices that Mr. Percival deplores; for reference see the works of Dr. Carl Synder. Inflation of debt, when all new money is created as debt, is, as all students of the matter know, inevitable, and it is this inflation of debt that Douglas—and other economists of note—seeks to prevent. Devices such as the "devaluation" of currencies in order that a greater structure of debt-credit can be erected upon them and thus restore price levels, are only subterfuges. It does not require brilliant intelligence to see that if more money (greater bank credit) is required to make our productive system produce and distribute goods—and this addition to money debt that rises at such a rate that it becomes insupportable to our productive system, topples of its own weight and drags our economy down with it—that the additional money we need should be provided in some other way. Creating more debt to get rid of the consequences of creating debt faster than we can create wealth is fantastic on the face of it. This is the great truth enunciated by Major C. H. Douglas and to which the best minds of the world are turning.

SACRED OBLIGATIONS
Sir,—In your issue of July 25, a Mr. Legalis speaks of Rev. Robert Connell and Professor Gordon King as Christian gentlemen. Quite so, but I assume these gentlemen were speaking in support of the C.C.F. Now the leader of the C.C.F., Mr. J. S. Woodsworth, in his manifesto as reported in The Victoria Daily Times of July 15, uses the following words: "We cannot allow ourselves forever to be held in the gutter by these so-called sacred obligations to bondholders." If these words do not mean barefaced repudiation of debts, perhaps some Christian gentleman who believes in the C.C.F. will tell us what they do mean.

Got "Gob's" Garments?

Confidence men were working overtime here during the recent visit of the three American war vessels. Here's the best story concerning a local "con" man yet come to light. A sailor from one of the ships picked up a local girl, and took her to the beach in a taxi. Some altercation arose, and the sailor claimed he had been "rolled" by the girl. The girl, of course, became indignant and marched to the nearest phone and called a taxi. She arrived in town, and when she opened her purse to pay the taxi toll she discovered the entire contents of her purse had been stolen. She immediately proceeded to the boat and gave a description of the man to the first person she saw. The sailor questioned said: "I'm looking for the same bird. We went out on a party the other night and I woke up in Beacon Hill Park in his clothes, my money and uniform stolen." The uniform was returned a few hours before the vessel sailed, by a local messenger. The girl did not want any publicity on the matter, so she did not report it to police, she said.—W.J.H.

SOCIAL CREDIT IN PRACTICE
Sir,—During the reign (or rather regency) of Louis the Fifteenth, one John Law, a Scotchman, induced the Government to adopt his scheme of credit-bank system. He displayed powers of reasoning and dialectic which have probably never been surpassed, but in estimating the amount of paper to be put into circulation his ideas became vague, but he felt sure he could adjust the rate of the issue to the necessities of the case, and always maintain a healthy equilibrium between circulation and demand, in other words, between the distribution of the paper currency and the development of trade. In order to keep pace with the monetary requirements of the country it became necessary to develop the concern on a scale that became more and more colossal. On paper the economy was indisputable, in reality it was financial juggling. The paper created or taken over by Law represented more than ten billions. Speculation became a frenzy. The whole thing collapsed, and Law and thousands of others were completely ruined.

"It would take too much of your space to go into details. The whole scheme and its disastrous ending is described in detail in 'The Life and Times of Louis the Fifteenth,' by Pierre Gaxotte, 537 Oliver Street, Oak Bay, B.C., July 26, 1935.

Two old-fashioned ladies were discussing the modern generation.

"Yes," said one, "I don't know what the modern is coming to—women masquerading as men."

"Yes," chimed in the other, "and everybody is suspected, too. Why, only yesterday I got a

New Party Opposed To Any Merger of Canadian Railways

Would Modernize Lines, Reduce C.N.R. Indebtedness and Create Sufficient Business to Make Both Systems Profitable

TORONTO, July 26.—Fearing a railway merger would lead ultimately to transportation control "in the hands of a few financiers" with Parliament powerless against a "transportation trust," headquarters of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstruction Party tonight announced a three-fold programme which would seek to unravel the Canadian railway problem.

"There is only one solution," said the statement, "and that is to create in Canada sufficient business, which, in itself, creates traffic in goods and passengers."

Aids to this, said the statement, approved by the former Minister of Trade and Commerce before his departure for Winnipeg, were insistence upon efficient running of the two railways. Also urged was a "cutting down of the value of assets of the Canadian National Railways" in accordance with the recommendations of a competent board of railway appraisers to be appointed, and absorbing into the national debt of the Dominion this outstanding debt over and above a reasonable percentage of the new value of the C.N.R.

"Ample allowance has been made for the retirement of this debt in the calculation of the Reconstruction Party, inasmuch as the total C.N.R. debt was included in the computation," says the statement.

IS NO SOLUTION

It continues: "The Reconstruction Party does not believe amalgamation under private ownership offers a solution of Canada's railway problems. Neither does it believe that amalgamation of management substantially improves the situation, let alone solving the problem.

"The question of railway amalgamation, or even unification of railway management, is a serious one for the Canadian people. The major reduction in expense under unified management, or complete merging of the two systems, can only be brought about by reducing the staffs of each road. The direct sufferers will therefore be necessary to some of the employees of both the C.P.R. and the C.N.R. The least direct sufferers will be the people of Canada generally, because:

EFFECT OF REDUCTIONS
"1. To further reduce expenses, fewer trains will have to be run and passenger schedules cut to a minimum. Traveling of the passenger trains of either of the two railways, already leaving much to be desired, will become still worse when to the passengers' physical discomfort is added the nuisance of poor connections and long stopovers.

"2. If the outstanding debt of the railways is not to be increased, they cannot be modernized. The equipment of both systems is obsolete and this must be modernized in order to give first-class service. This will entail the expenditure of large sums whether they are amalgamated or not.

VIRTUAL DICTATORSHIP

"3. The merging of the assets of the two systems under one trust board of private directors will set up a virtual dictatorship more powerful than Parliament, to which we are unalterably opposed.

"The assets of the C.P.R. and C.N.R. together represent a large percentage of the invested capital in Canada. The private owners of the new combined system of railways would completely control the transportation of goods and passengers across Canada, and the cost of such transportation, even in the face of the railway commission, could not be controlled, because figures can be made to tell any story.

"And, what is the most important consideration, should the combined system become financially embarrassed, it would obviously contract obligations with the bankers, who then would, in any serious situation, for instance in war, obtain control of the system."

SUFFERS SHOCK AFTER ESCAPE

Youth Is Nearly Drowned Falling From Landing at Nanaimo Lake

NANAIMO, July 26.—Stanley McMillan, seventeen, of Vancouver, is in Nanaimo Hospital suffering from shock and exposure, after having nearly drowned at Nanaimo Lake on Wednesday. The youth, while on the landing into thirty feet of water, and evidently struck his head against some obstacle, as he was apparently unconscious as his rescuer, Thomas McArthur, worked to rescue him. McArthur eventually brought him to shore, and R. Humphries and H. Carson rendered first aid, later taking him to hospital, where it is stated he will require careful attention for at least a week.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 26.—These skip-about Saturday columns are most pleasant of all to do. Without form and void, they are a mill race of tumbling thoughts, faulty, unsure and often ignorant. And altogether effortless. Whatever pops into mind is set down, imprisoning the panorama in shattered bits.

Other daily columns require the rigors of formula, a strain perhaps for a metaphor or a line that might inspire a reader to murmur, "I rather like that!" But on Saturday there are none of these warm yearnings. Things just go wah-wah. The mood willy-nilly. First come, first served.

Many columns, I believe, envision their worth by suers. Or maybe the years have made me soft. Yet I was noticing in the shaving glass this morning that my hair stubbornly refuses to turn white. It's the slate grey of my late twenties. How proud at twenty-eight when a streak of grey sprouted down the middle!

The girl cashier at the restaurant said it was distinguishable—pronounced it correctly. I didn't know what that meant. When I saw the word in print I called it "dis-tin-gu." More than any other person I wanted to look like Robert Hilliard. I wound up resembling, so they say, Ned Sparks of the movies.

Louis Hibel jettied a fine thought in his column not long ago. I forget exactly how expressed. But Archie Roosevelt's "We Did It for the Children!" Grand travesty on a family auto tour. (Copyright, 1935, McNaught Syndicate)

MRS. T. ALLAN TO GIVE MESSAGES
At the First Spiritualist Church, Sons of England Hall, Broad Street, there will be a public circle on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Mrs. T. Allan. At 7:30 there will be a trance address, followed by messages by flowers, to be given by Mrs. T. Allan.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME
NANAIMO, July 26.—The home of Mrs. H. Good on No. 3 Indian Reserve, six miles south of Nanaimo, was completely destroyed by fire early this morning. The house was valued at between $3,000 and $4,000. Of the furniture, only two chairs were saved.

I walked a block or so a few steps behind John D. Rockefeller, Jr. on Fifth Avenue a recent evening. Odd how, in such a celebrity-crazed city, few recognized him. One cop touched his cap. A passing lady glanced at him in a startled recognition. Then looked puzzled. I caught up with her and told his name. "Well," she sniffed, "I wouldn't want his worries with those taxes and everything."

When there comes one of the knotty days in columning I think of the travail of H. T. Webster in the 148th Street ground floor flat days. No artist I have ever known suffered such acute labor pains in creation. We called it "Web's daily stew!" Under a green drop light he went to his drawing board immediately after breakfast. There he sat, squinting, scowling, exclaiming and muttering and belauding himself in tobacco smoke. Ray Rohn, Bob Brinkerhoff and I did our chores tip-toe. Often it was dusk and there would be a blaze of activity in Web's corner, and in no time the cartoon was done. Polly, the black girl, would whisper, "He's done it!" During one of those fretful stretches Casper Milquetos was born.

Nothing plumes my curiosity like a brawl between two women, especially when they are a bit tipsy. And delicately obscene. I was at the ringside of a tiff in a restaurant last night. It was getting merry beyond words when one called the other a modern name for an antique profession, and they flailed into a clinch. The poor gentleman escort was pitiable to behold. My idea of something superfluous in a lady brawl would be between those human Roman candles, Lupe Velez and Lydia Roberto. With Mae West as referee.

I used to wonder who bought those home beautiful and house and garden magazines. To me they attained reading zero. And then my wife began an experiment in what post called it chambering a nauticus—home building and furnishing. Now I'm like a dime novel fiend about such journals. Arthur Samuels, of House Beautiful, chases me out of his sanctum several times a week. And I have become a frequent bidder at all the auctions. Which reminds me, auctioneers are the world's super-salesmen. One who properly bedamned, could double the other afternoon on one of those piously mottoed tattlings in red they used to hang over the head-board of beds. And there's just room for a week-end reading tip. Try Mrs.

SOOKE RIDER BADLY HURT

Miss M. A. Throup Thrown From Horse Suffers Fractures and Bruises

SOOKE, July 26.—Miss Mary Ann Throup, seventeen-year-old daughter of E. Throup, pioneer of this district, met with a serious accident on Wednesday evening when riding home from the picnic grounds.

At the intersection of Sooke and Jordan River roads, her horse bolted. A car sped past; the driver, Cliff Merriam, thinking to stop the runaway, turned in front of it, but the horse, going too fast to serve, collided with a parked car owned by Claude Cook.

Miss Throup was thrown some distance, landing on her head and shoulder, and did not regain consciousness for two and a half hours. She was attended by Dr. Bagby, who happened to be passing, and was taken to Mr. and Mrs. McBrien's store.

Dr. Robertson, local physician, was summoned, and is now attending her. Miss Throup is suffering from a fracture of the collarbone and tendons of the forearm, with severe bruises on head and shoulder.

BAND CONCERT ATTRACTS MANY

Nearly 2,500 Persons Enjoy Splendid Concert on Inner Harbor "Show Boat"

A flame-tinted sunset, reflected in a bluish-grey sky, furnished the setting for a popular concert given in the Inner Harbor last evening by the band of the 5th B.C. Coast Brigade, led by Bandmaster Alfred Prescott on the Tourist Trade Development Association's "Show Boat." Nearly 2,500 persons filled the seats on the grassy slope and lined up along Belleville Street and the Causeway. T. H. Edick, who alternated with Harry Hay as master of ceremonies, welcomed citizens and visitors to the city, hoping that they would leave with kindly memories. Several hundred persons raised their hands when Mr. Edick inquired how many visitors there were among the audience.

CONCERTS NEXT WEEK
Mr. Edick announced that "Slim" Hunter and his Rustlers would give a concert on the "Show Boat" on Monday; the Islanders' concert party on Wednesday; Frank Tupper and his band on Thursday; and the band of the 16th Canadian Scottish on Saturday, August 3. He urged all citizens to attend a mass meeting, called by those interested in a new deal for Vancouver Island, at the City Temple, on Friday, August 2.

Selections rendered by the 5th B.C. Coast Brigade band included compositions of such well-known composers as Verdi, Romberg, Victor Herbert, Schubert and Delibes. Harry Hay led the community singing of "In the Good Old Summer Time." Later he sang "In Old Vienna Town," and was loudly applauded.

BAND SELECTIONS
The following band programme was given:
March and procession of Bacchus, from the ballet "Sylvia," by Leo Delibes; value lent, "Love's Last Word," selections from "Princess Pail," Victor Herbert; overture from "Rosamunde," Franz Schubert; march, "National High School," Hays; se-

At the Theatres

AMUSING PICTURE AT THE CAPITOL

Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery Are Co-Starring in "No More Ladies"

In a story that fairly bubbles with comedy, Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery come to the Capitol Theatre today in "No More Ladies," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production directed by Edward H. Griffith.

When Marcia Townsend (Joan Crawford) marries Sherry Warren (Robert Montgomery), she knows his past, but they are sure that, in spite of their many "happily divorced" friends, they can make marriage work.

When, later, Marcia discovers she may have made a mistake, she decides to dry her tears and throw a party. And what a party! All Sherry's ex-sweethearts are invited with their new swains and ex-husbands. That it doesn't turn out exactly as Marcia planned, shapes the drama of the picture, and meanwhile the funniest party scenes ever filmed hold the screen.

PLAYHOUSE Director Edward Sutherland found work for several old-time favorites now down on their luck in the extra ranks of his latest Paramount picture, "Mississippi," now at the Playhouse Theatre. Working with Queenie Smith in the opening sequence are Helene Chadwick, former star; King Baggot, one of screen's leading directors of a few years back, and Jerome Storm, another ex-director.

DOMINION With Jane Withers and Jackie Seagriff, "Ginger," now at the Dominion Theatre, boasts the world's champion small girl and boy heavies of the screen. There's a well clash with a world of comedy when these youngsters get together, but they're not heavies in this picture. When Jane, the little, independent, self-reliant product of Ninth Avenue, is

WARD THREE IS CONGRATULATED

Officers of Victoria Conservatives Compliment Organization on Activity

Ward Three Conservatives chose six of one delegates and fifteen alternates at a capacity meeting last evening in the Conservative Rooms. Those selected will represent the organization at a central nominating convention of the party at the Chamber of Commerce Rooms on Friday next. J. E. Branson presided.

Hugh Allan, president, and E. W. Maynard, first vice-president, of the Victoria Conservative Association, spoke during the evening, paying a warm tribute to the chairman and officers of Ward Three as one of the most active associations in the city.

Henry Benson, a former member of the McBride Government, was complimented on being the oldest worker in the organization. Mrs. Florence Noels rendered several excellent vocal numbers, playing her own accompaniment.

NOT CONSTRUCTIVE

Liberals across Canada from one coast to the other, said Mr. Allan, were voluble in reference to Conservative policies, but a little secretive about their own. There had been much said in Parliament about the alleged defects of Conservative rule, but little in Hansard to show that anything of a practical or constructive nature had been proposed as an alternative.

Trade figures had been cited without end, but ignored the fact that Canada's and the world's trade had been at a peak in 1926 and had fallen off between then and 1931. Canada had met its gravest crisis in the post-war years in 1931 and 1932, and trade had been on the mend, steadily, since, Mr. Allan continued.

Return of public confidence, to release private enterprise and individual initiative, was needed, and this could best be encouraged by sane, steady-going policies with proven means, and without fanatical experimentation such as had been tried and failed in other countries, Mr. Allan concluded.

E. W. MAYNARD

Liberal speculation as to whom Conservatives would name as candidate in Victoria was a compliment, Mr. Maynard submitted. At the same time he had a suspicion that the Conservatives would be able to arrive at an amicable choice without assistance, and would be found solidly in support of the candidate selected to carry the party's banner here. Some of those carrying the Liberal banner might be able to do greater ease at night if they had an equivalent assurance, Mr. Maynard said.

Turning to C.C.F. policies, Mr. Maynard said he did not think Canada would prosper under the C.C.F. policy, but he was not in a position to say so. He was not in a position to say so. He was not in a position to say so.

To reverend gentlemen, and those who brought partial quotations from the Scriptures into political discussions, he would recommend the Deacon's "Confession" had been a prominent part of the C.C.F. doctrines in the past, but was curiously missing now. Did this imply a change of heart, or just a softening of the shock to the electorate, Mr. Maynard asked, in conclusion.

The meeting, interspersed with songs and other musical numbers, closed with the National Anthem.

Obituary

PINNELL—Thomas Pinnell, aged sixty-one years, of 86 Dallas Road, passed away yesterday at the Royal Jubilee Hospital. Mr. Pinnell was born in London, England, and was for many years in business as a merchant in Calgary. In 1916 he left for overseas, and returned at the close of the Great War to Calgary. Mr. Pinnell came to Victoria thirteen years ago. He is survived by his widow and one son, Gordon, at home, and four brothers and three sisters in Canada. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

DIED AT NANAIMO

NANAIMO, July 26.—Mrs. Emily Wilson, sixty-one years of age, died at the family home, 12 Beaufort Street, yesterday morning after a long illness. She had resided here for the past twelve years, and is survived by her husband, Edward R. Wilson, and a brother and sister living in England. The funeral will be held from the D. J. Jenkins Ltd. Chapel on Saturday at 2:30 p.m. Rev. H. V. Hitchcock officiating.

Mrs. William Henry Ganner, seventy-two, died at the family residence, Priddy Street, early this morning. She had resided in Nanaimo for the past forty-three years. Besides her husband she leaves one son, Harry, at home, and three sisters, Mrs. Albert Manifold, Nanaimo; Mrs. Samuel Hughes, Ottawa; and Mrs. Peter Bewick, England. The funeral will be held Saturday at 4 p.m. from the Chapman Funeral Home. Rev. J. H. Wright will conduct services.

VANCOUVER, July 26 (AP)—K. Shintani, forty-one-year-old Japanese fisherman, fell overboard from his gasboat, the KS-7, today and was drowned in the waters of Burrard Inlet according to reports received by police.

A. P. Gawn, caretaker at the Canadian Legion Hall, reported to police that he noticed a gasboat drifting near the Second Narrows Bridge with a man clinging to the side. Before help could be summoned, the man, later identified as Shintani, apparently became exhausted and slipped back into the water.

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

Tonight and tomorrow night the Victoria Legion will put on in their last days of training for the great game that will be played at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday afternoon, and if hard work and determination have been put into anything, all their Victoria should do to Westminster what they did to the Vancouver twelve on May 24.

The Salmonbellies will be represented by the strongest aggregation of amateur players that can be produced from the ranks of the Fraser River side welders, and they will come down ready to take the local lumps into camp. But will they be able to lick the Victoria aggregation that has been playing the Canadian National game so well this season? That is the question that local fans are turning over in their minds these days. There has been a victory over Vancouver and also one over the brawny athletes from the Fraser River banks, but a single defeat, and that received across the gulf on the Charming.

Great preparations have been made by the residents of Chinatown as well as by the committee in charge for the annual regatta which takes place at the famous Island resort on Saturday next. Besides the purely aquatic part of the long programme there have been many events added in the way of foot races and jumping competitions for those who have no particular bent towards the water competition.

Arrangements have been made to run special trains up the line as far as Shawnigan Lake, and together with the regular daily service this ought to furnish ample train accommodation.

DIED AT QUALICUM

NANAIMO, July 26.—Mrs. Bette Ethel Anderson, fifty-two, native of Victoria, died at her home at Qualicum Beach this morning. She came to Qualicum Beach with her husband seventeen months ago, previous to which she had resided in Winnipeg for four years. She is survived by her husband, Lieut.-Colonel W. H. C. Anderson, M.D., R.C.M.C., C.E. Funeral will be held from St. Mark's Church, Qualicum Beach, on Sunday at 2 p.m. Rev. G. A. Bagshaw conducting services and interment will be in the family plot in Qualicum Cemetery.

What Today Means

"LEO"

If July 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:45 a.m. to 1:45 p.m., from 3:45 to 5:45 p.m., and from 8:45 to 10:45 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:45 to 9:45 a.m., from 5:45 to 7:45 p.m. and from 10:45 p.m. until midnight.

Be careful you do not give unintentional offence this day through a careless choice of words. There is every indication it will be an auspicious day for making social contacts, indoor sports or entertainment, as well as for places offering diversion to the general public. Magnetic influences conducive to drawing crowds are likely to exist. Careful attention should be given to personal apparel because clothing displaying poor or flashy taste may have a disturbing effect on those with conservative ideas regarding dress. Ears will probably be sensitive to discordant sounds on this date, so carefully modulated voices will find favor and loud tones are liable to cause irritability. Indiscretion is the food upon which gossip thrives, so the wise will be discreet, especially in public places. Married and single couples and those seeking full possession of someone's heart, will have nothing to regret if they will remember true love is best expressed by actions rather than words. If a woman and July 27 is your birthday, avoid trying to impose your own personality or ideas on others if you wish to avoid discordant conditions at home and abroad. To gain popularity you must respect the rights of other people to have their own views on any subject. Money probably will come to you from an unexpected source. Be careful you are not talked out of it. If you do not close your eyes to it you will find a great deal of love offered to you in your daily life. You are systematic and painstaking in all you do. Therefore, you should be very successful in whatever you undertake. Clerical or office work, teaching, writing short stories or acting as a professional buyer are likely to provide the right medium of activity for you. You should make a man, a very fine wife and be deeply appreciated by him.

The child born on July 27 may prefer to be a professional career rather than commercial life. It might be a mistake to interfere with its ideas on this subject. If a man and July 27 is your natal day, you should be very popular. Your retentive memory, perseverance and energy, undoubtedly will be well-rewarded in due course of time. Chemistry, engineering, newspaper work, printing, publishing and manufacturing may be directly or indirectly responsible for your success. A sedate elderly couple, with the look of people who lived by, with, and for the land, listened to them in silence. Eventually the farmer, exasperated beyond bearing, exclaimed loudly: "Let's you and me argue about docks, Maggie."

BIG BOATING
EVENT TODAY

Eighty-Five Motor Craft Will
Finish Annual Race
At Nanaimo

TACOMA, July 26.—The Pacific Northwest's outstanding 1935 boating event, the annual "capital-to-capital" international power boat race, began at 2:30 this afternoon with Fred Dalbro's Sterling, Tacoma Yacht Club en-transport, the first of more than four score cruisers to cross the starting line on a course through inland waters which will end at Nanaimo, B.C., tomorrow.

Though more than 100 entrants had been expected from Sound and British Columbia cities, the list at closing time today totaled eighty-five power boats of various sizes and design, the greatest number to participate in a race of this nature on any American coast this year.

Boats were signalled to the start-line in the city waterway after the departure of the Sterling, every few minutes, but the intervals be-came wider after 7 p.m., until the fast Queen City Yacht Club entrant from Seattle, the Bully Bob, last year's winner, remained with a start scheduled for 6:30 Saturday morn-ing.

Another thirty-five British Colum-bians are shortly to visit England, all of them sailing either on the Ss. Duchess of Bedford, on Friday, August 2, or the following day on the Ss. Empress of Britain.

Among them will be, on the Bed-ford, Alastair M. McLean, Mrs. Ethel McLean, Mrs. M. A. Barry, Mrs. M. L. Wright, Miss Joan Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smythe, H. A. Hyman, Mrs. C. G. Williams and Mrs. M. Ritchie, all from Van-couver; William Rigney, Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. J. McGee, Port Alberni; Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Fran-cis, Miss Eileen M. Francis and Miss Sonia Francis, of Ocean Falls, and Mrs. G. H. Munro, of Sumaswa In-let.

The Empress of Britain will have aboard from British Columbia the following travellers: Dr. R. B. Wal-lace, R. W. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. R. Poulter, Mrs. R. H. Wilson, Mrs. T. McNeil, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Har-low and Master Donald Harlow, all of Vancouver; Miss W. Wall, Victo-ria; Mrs. H. B. McKay, Misses Gloria B. Dawn E. and Master Bruce E. McKay, of Nelson.

Among other saloon passengers will be D. E. Sassoon, senior member of the famous sporting and banking family, and Princess Otobon, sister-in-law of Mr. Sassoon.

"I'd like to kiss you until you hollered stop!"
"Well, I guess you picked the wrong girl this time."
"You mean you won't let me kiss you?"

JUNIORS TO MAKE SPORT

Young Sailors Are Sponsoring Novelty Programme at Yacht Club Today

Today is Juniors' Day at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club and the young sailors have prepared an ambitious and extensive programme for the entertainment of their friends. There will be racing and stunting and novelty events. The programme will start at 2 p.m.

The first event will be a rigging race, the boats competing having to be alongside the float with sailing gear on deck. On the gun the boats are to be rigged and then sailed over a course to be marked at the time. When the boats return to the dock, remove all sailing gear from the boat, consume a bottle of beer each, return to boats and conclude race by propelling dinghies, either with paddles or oars over a given course.

In the 50-50 race, the participants are to sail over a set course and will be permitted to use any other means of propulsion they wish, other than that of an outboard engine.

The third event is to be a sailing race over a small triangular course, which will necessitate the complete encircling of each mark on the course, once or twice around, depending on the weather.

A jibing-over race entailing jibing over instead of the customary going about will be fourth on the programme. It will be run only if the weather conditions are suitable.

The final event will be a treasure hunt. A treasure will be concealed in the vicinity of the club float and must be searched for, from sailing boats only, and which must be under sail only.

TO BUILD ITS OWN STEAMERS

War Department of Mexico Completing Shipyard at Manzanillo

Mexico intends to build its own merchant marine in order to stimulate sea commerce and to be independent of foreign shipyards, according to plans the War Department are developing.

This construction will be at the naval base and shipyard, the Federal Government is completing at Manzanillo.

The department deems that a sufficient number of steamers to increase Mexico's facilities can be built at this shipyard. These craft will be used mostly in the Gulf of Mexico, where coastwise service is inefficient that it was necessary to permit foreign vessels to engage in this trade.

CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES
The plan calls for selling these steamers to co-operative societies of shipowners and seafarers, the Federal Government is organizing. These sales will be made on long and easy terms.

The department will take delivery soon of machinery and equipment it ordered abroad for the Manzanillo shipyard.

All Mexican merchant and warships now in service were built in foreign yards. Most of the commercial vessels are repaired or conditioned at Mobile.

CRUISING IN SMALL CRAFT

Youthful Adventurer Bound
For Juneau in Small
Sailboat

NANAIMO, July 26.—Ralph Mortenson, nineteen-year-old youth from Tacoma, one of the first arrivals in Nanaimo to witness the finish of the international yacht race, which will take place here tomorrow.

Mortenson arrived here last evening in a fourteen-foot sailboat which he had navigated from Tacoma, having left there last Sunday. He will, after the race, continue his travels and expects to sail as far north as Juneau, Alaska, before turning homeward.

His boat, besides sails, is also equipped with two tiny brand new outboard motors of two-horsepower each, one is a spare.

RETURNED FOR REPAIRS
Just north of Seattle, the housing of one of his motors cracked and the youthful sailor was obliged to return to Seattle for repairs. The boat is so tiny that cooking facilities are limited and Mortenson usually makes a landing to cook his meals, but he sleeps aboard. He visited the local yacht club last evening and was accorded a hearty welcome. He reciprocated by taking various members for a ride in his boat. With motor running the craft makes about five miles per hour, but in favorable breeze the pace increases to eight miles. Mortenson has neither dog nor parrot aboard, being entirely "on his own."

THE BARE FACTS
It is stated that the pastor of a colored congregation in the South so pestered his bishop with requests for help that it devolved upon the latter to write him a letter stating that in future such appeals would be entirely disregarded.

Pretty soon though, another letter came from the minister. The bishop opened it. It read as follows: "Dear Bishop: 'This here ain't no appeal. It's a report. 'I has no pants!'"

BIG BOATING
EVENT TODAY

Eighty-Five Motor Craft Will
Finish Annual Race
At Nanaimo

TACOMA, July 26.—The Pacific Northwest's outstanding 1935 boating event, the annual "capital-to-capital" international power boat race, began at 2:30 this afternoon with Fred Dalbro's Sterling, Tacoma Yacht Club en-transport, the first of more than four score cruisers to cross the starting line on a course through inland waters which will end at Nanaimo, B.C., tomorrow.

Though more than 100 entrants had been expected from Sound and British Columbia cities, the list at closing time today totaled eighty-five power boats of various sizes and design, the greatest number to participate in a race of this nature on any American coast this year.

Boats were signalled to the start-line in the city waterway after the departure of the Sterling, every few minutes, but the intervals be-came wider after 7 p.m., until the fast Queen City Yacht Club entrant from Seattle, the Bully Bob, last year's winner, remained with a start scheduled for 6:30 Saturday morn-ing.

Another thirty-five British Colum-bians are shortly to visit England, all of them sailing either on the Ss. Duchess of Bedford, on Friday, August 2, or the following day on the Ss. Empress of Britain.

Among them will be, on the Bed-ford, Alastair M. McLean, Mrs. Ethel McLean, Mrs. M. A. Barry, Mrs. M. L. Wright, Miss Joan Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smythe, H. A. Hyman, Mrs. C. G. Williams and Mrs. M. Ritchie, all from Van-couver; William Rigney, Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. J. McGee, Port Alberni; Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Fran-cis, Miss Eileen M. Francis and Miss Sonia Francis, of Ocean Falls, and Mrs. G. H. Munro, of Sumaswa In-let.

The Empress of Britain will have aboard from British Columbia the following travellers: Dr. R. B. Wal-lace, R. W. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. R. Poulter, Mrs. R. H. Wilson, Mrs. T. McNeil, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Har-low and Master Donald Harlow, all of Vancouver; Miss W. Wall, Victo-ria; Mrs. H. B. McKay, Misses Gloria B. Dawn E. and Master Bruce E. McKay, of Nelson.

Among other saloon passengers will be D. E. Sassoon, senior member of the famous sporting and banking family, and Princess Otobon, sister-in-law of Mr. Sassoon.

Churches and Their World-Wide Work

U.S. Churches Increase In Membership in 1934

The total membership increase of the churches in the United States for 1934 is one of the largest ever recorded, according to The Christian Herald Annual Report of Church Statistics appearing in the July issue of that magazine. The report was prepared by Dr. George Linn Kieffer, president of the American Association of Religious Statisticians.

In 1934 churches and religious bodies showed a total gain in membership of 1,222,004, the gain in "adult" membership, thirteen years of age and over, was 910,651. The fifty largest religious bodies alone—those having a membership of 50,000 or more—gained a total of 1,207,188.

The Methodists, whose rate of increase for several years previous was not so large, have risen to the head of the list of Protestant denominations, with a total net gain of 210,475 members in 1934. The Baptists, who have led for several years, come second, with a gain of 161,720. The Lutherans are third, with a gain of 101,118.

Other leading denominations also gained substantially; among them the Disciples of Christ gained 29,282, the Presbyterians 21,764, and the Protestant Episcopalians 22,150.

ROMAN CATHOLICS LEAD

The Baptists, with a total membership of 10,027,929, still remain the largest Protestant denomination. The Methodists, with 8,976,492, are second. The Roman Catholic Church is still the largest religious body in the country, with a total membership of 20,398,509, a one-year gain of 198,915.

Total all-purpose contributions made by church members in 1934 amounted to $299,416,781.35, a per capita contribution of $12.07. Contributions in 1933 amounted to $161,111. While this shows a loss, it is the belief of Dr. Kieffer that the churches have maintained their standard of credit all through the years of the depression as no other business or social organization has done.

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "In order to apprehend more, we must put into practice what we already know. The Alliance Congress meets alternately east and west of the Atlantic, and has been held successfully in London, Philadelphia, Stockholm, Toronto and Berlin. Dr. Rushbrooke reported a church membership of 1,300,000, not counting the Baptists in Russia, concerning whom there are no statistics.

Churchless Desert Was Once Abloom With Christianity

THOUGH in the early days of the Christian era a centre for the diffusion of the Christian faith, Turkey is now a land that gives no place to religion, either Islamic or Christian, nor is there in that land a single Protestant church, and but few of the Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox faiths. In the church at Addis Ababa, a picture will be drawn of priests compelled to wear loincloths, nuns to go about with long hair on their uncovered heads, and the name of God forbidden in schools and all public institutions.

"How to Develop Faith and Overcome Failure and Disease" will be Dr. Clem Davies' theme at his morning service tomorrow at the Empire Theatre.

"What are the Bible predictions concerning Ethiopia?"

"Formerly you declared that if your hearers spoke and thought peace, peace would naturally result. Have you not recently reversed your position?"

"Great Britain allegedly fought in the last war for the sanctity of covenants. Has she not recently revealed herself in abrogating the Washington armament limitation treaty?"

"Do you care to set at rest or give credence to rumors of your being Victoria's Reconstruction Party candidate?"

"What do you think of Roger Babson's suggestion of birth-control to eliminate economic ills?"

"How can Canada, with her immense geographic territory, remain detached and aloof from the world-wide struggle of overpopulated countries for expansion?"

"Why are nearly all the countries of the world determinedly expelling and persecuting the Jews?"

"Will Britain close the Suez Canal if Italy cannot be restrained from war in Ethiopia?"

"As an earnest advocate for peace, and feeling that the coming struggle is obviously planned by the armament ring, am I justified in refusing to fight if Canada is forced into war?"

"Where will Arabia stand if war breaks out in the Near East?"

"As an earnest believer in Divine healing, dare I stop taking medicine prescribed for my ailment?"

LOCAL AUTHOR TO BE SPEAKER

Mrs. R. W. McClung Is First Baptist Preacher—Evening, Musical Service

Mrs. R. W. McClung, popular and widely-known writer and lecturer, will be the guest speaker at the First Baptist Church tomorrow. As a lecturer Mrs. McClung stands eminently among the foremost of Canadian speakers.

The popularity of her writings is due in no small measure to the fact that many of the characters depicted in her books are portrayals of persons with whom she has made personal contact, while her keen perception enables her to envisage values hidden from the ordinary on-looker.

Mrs. McClung's subject will be "Measuring Life." Mrs. John Meason will sing Blanche Seaver's "Just for Today."

The evening service will be devoted almost entirely to sacred music; to be presented by the choir. Angus Galbraith will conduct the service. The following sacred numbers will be rendered: Anthem, "Gloria in Excelsis" (Mozart); soprano solo, "Others" (Penn); Miss Ina Tait; duet, selected Mrs. Robert McIntosh and Miss H. Barr; anthem, "Hark! Hark! My Soul" (Shelley); baritone solo, "It Is Enough" ("Eljah"); Arthur Jackman, tenor solo, "If With All Your Hearts" ("Eljah"); George Guy; duet, "Gloria to Thee, My God, This Night" (Gounod); Mrs. Martin Dawson and Arthur Jackman, and the anthem "Just as I Am" (Bowles).

CANADIANS ELIMINATED FROM NATIONAL TOURNEY

Coulson Qualifies To Meet Campbell In Sculling Final

Toronto Rower Races to Sparkling Victory Over Konrad to Reach Last Bracket—Butler and Dickinson, of Vancouver, Are Class of Tackweights

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., July 26.—Johnny Coulson, who wants the Diamond Sculls and all the rest of the sculling glory as much as his towering clubmate, Charlie Campbell, of Toronto Argonauts, raced to a sparkling triumph today in the fifty-third Royal Canadian Henley Association singles and qualified to face Campbell tomorrow for the senior championship.

The victory paved the way for a meeting of Canada's two greatest scullers—twenty-one-year-old Charlie Campbell, Canadian and United States champion, and the smiling Johnny Coulson, who firmly believes he can defeat Campbell.

Today Coulson easily conquered Erwin Konrad, of Buffalo Westsides, United States and Canadian sprint champion; R. W. Bates, of the Union Boat Club, Boston, and Herb Miller, of University of Toronto. His time was eight minutes thirty-five seconds for the mile-and-a-quarter course.

Campbell, the giant kid who stepped into a scull for the first time last year and now holds both national titles on the continent, will face his most serious rival tomorrow when he hooks up tomorrow with Coulson.

Argonauts won three other events and collected three seconds and two thirds to take complete command of the grand aggregate situation.

ARGOS WELL AHEAD
The men in double blue had to share second-day honors, however, with Vancouver's lightweight pair, Monty Butler and Johnny Dickinson, who won their two events, and with two powerful junior eights from Detroit.

Argos amassed a point total of 15, compared with 27 for Detroit and 16 for Vancouver.

Vancouver's "tackweights," Butler and Dickinson, scored with impressive ease, strengthening the claim they are the strongest light double the Far West ever sent to Henley.

Little more than an hour after Butler won the junior 140-pound singles sculls he teamed with Dickinson to win the 140-pound doubles just as easily.

Nether time was there a pressing need for the British Columbians to show their real power. Butler drove into an early lead in the singles and rated himself along two safe lengths ahead of Maurice Fitzpatrick, of St. Catharines. His time was slow—10:36—a brisk wind and lack of competition were both against him.

A Dons pair, B. Alexander and G. Picken, provided what opposition there was for the Vancouver youths in the doubles race, but at the halfway point Butler and Dickinson had their Toronto foes in distress and merely kept pace to win by about three lengths in 10:13.4.

GREAT STRUGGLE
The epic struggle of the day, however, was in the 150-pound eights. With Argos, Hamilton Leanders and Fort William in the running and Wyandotte away back. One hundred yards from the finish, with Argos and Leanders splashing water on each other, Sheriff, in the No. 4 berth in the Toronto boat, collapsed, and his dragging sweep port too much of a handicap to his mates.

Leanders edged through to win by less than a boatlength, with Fort William close up. It was the best showing made by a Lakhead crew in the regatta.

St. Catharines Intermediate 150-pound four tounded Argonauts by ten lengths.

George Robinson scored for the Toronto club in the junior singles final, defeating his clubmate, Bill Reid, and qualifying for the association final.

TILlicUMS. BEAT NAVY
Chalk Up 7-2 Win in Ball Fixture—Game This Afternoon

COLLECTING a few scattered Southon, sailor twirler, and making them good for seven runs, Tillicums' ballplayers checked in with a 7-2 victory over the Navy yesterday evening at the Royal Athletic Park in a Victoria Senior Baseball League game.

After scores of initial frames, both clubs entered the score column in the next canto by pushing across one-run apiece. Tillicums forged to the front in the third inning, when they sent a lone runner around the bags, and stayed on the right end of the score for the remainder of the fixture. They added a pair of runs in each of the sixth and seventh innings to bring their total to seven markers. Sailors added one run, the last score of the game, in the eighth frame before the fixture was called on account of darkness.

HITS SCATTERED
Sailors touched Lloyd Jones, Tillicums' southpaw, for eight bingles, more than the clubmen collected from their twirler. Wildly scattered as they were, the hits were only good for two runs.

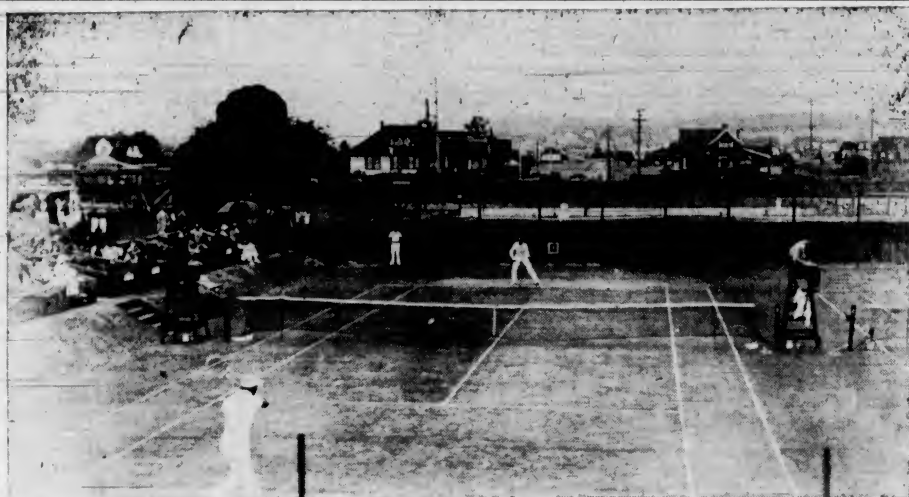

Wally Slupe, Tillicums' outfielder, let the hitters with two hits out of three trips to the plate.

This afternoon the Eagles and Sons of Canada, leading nines in the pennant chase, will meet at the Royal Athletic Park at 2:30 o'clock. Proudlove is expected to go to the mound for the feathered tribe, with Walker, young pitcher, doing the heavy work for the Canadians.

Action During Smith-Murio Tennis Match

Action caught by The Colonist photographer during the great five-set quarter-final match in the Canadian tennis championships at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club between Gene Smith, Berkeley, California, and John Murio, San Francisco Hawaiian. Smith won the match after some exciting moments, and then yesterday hurled Wayne Sabin, Portland, to reach the final, which is scheduled for this afternoon. Murio is caught in the foreground returning one of Smith's rapid-fire serves. The ball can be seen in the air approaching the net in the centre of the picture. During the match Smith broke his favored racquet going after one of Murio's high shots, but borrowed one, and then went on to finish off the Hawaiian in sensational style.

England Is Favored To Retain Davis Cup Against U.S. Netters

London Betting Commissioner Offering Odds of 7 to 4 That Great Britain Continues to Rule Net World—Singles Will Be Played Today

LONDON, July 26 (AP).—One of London's biggest betting commissioners tonight offered odds of 7 to 4 against the chances of the United States taking the Davis Cup in the challenge round, opening tomorrow.

The challengers, nevertheless, were highly optimistic after today's draw, which will put the redoubtable Wilmer Allison against H. W. Bunny Austin in the first singles match, leaving Fred Perry, world's No. 1 player, against the brilliant young Donald Budge, of California.

The United States forces figure that, while Perry cannot be beaten in his two singles, Allison, starting fresh tomorrow, has better than an even chance to take Austin, while the doubles are cinched for the challengers, and Budge should beat Austin for the deciding win on Tuesday.

PREDICTS VICTORY
Dan Maskell, the veteran coach of the defending team, predicted tonight that England would retain the mug by the same 4-1 margin as last year.

Allison, the thirty-one-year-old Texan, who will start the ball rolling against Austin tomorrow in what may prove to be the key match at the climatic series, refused to get agitated over the betting odds. "If I play like I played against Von Cramm in the inter-zone finals, I'll not worry," Allison declared.

The sensational Budge, who celebrated his twentieth birthday only a few days ago, proved equally unperturbed to the electrified atmosphere, although he will be playing in a challenge round for the first time.

Sons of Canada To Meet Indians In Ball Fixture
After running their winning streak to four straight games, Victoria Indians ball nine will be gunning for their fifth victory tomorrow at the Sonoghe Reservation when they stack up against the Sons of Canada in an exhibition fixture at 2:30 o'clock.

Manager Tommy Restell, of the Canadians, bent on taking the measure of the tribe, will send his strongest nine against the Indians in tomorrow's battle.

In the Simony Memorial last Sunday, named incidentally for the illustrious Canadian sire of Goldstream, who died last week, Goldstream was assigned and carried the top weight of 122 pounds, giving away eight pounds to the Greenfield Farm's Campillo, which horse has now, apparently, reached his best form. Goldstream packed the weight with ease and won with a bit to spare.

STRONG OPPOSITION
In Biff, the Canadian runner will be meeting a worthy foe. The four-year-old is one of the outstanding runners in the handicap division on the eastern circuit, and was sent here to try for the $10,000 Longacres Mile and all other available stakes.

Others expected to face the barrier in the British Columbia Handicap are Mrs. C. B. Irwin's Instigator, Tom Smith's Orley, Greenfield Farm's Campillo, Midlothian Stable's Jazz Bag and Greenfield Stable's Black Forest or Risky Miss. About nine will try for the purse of this event, which is expected to draw many thoroughbred racing fans from British Columbia.

TIGERS DISPLACE YANKEES FROM PREMIER BERTH

Defeats Cleveland As New York Loses To Washington, 9-3

Results Put Detroit One and a Half Games Ahead of McCarthy's Lads in Tight American League Race—Senators' Pitcher Badly Injured—Chicago Cubs Gain on Idle Giants

CLEVELAND, July 26 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers cleared up any doubts about their status in the American League pennant race which had been left after their series with the Yankees by trouncing the Indians, 8-2, in the series opener today and taking a clear hold on first place. The victory and the Yankees' defeat by Washington put Detroit one and a half games ahead and provided a triumphant climax for their climb in the standings. On May 30, when the Yankees assumed the lead, the Tigers had just left sixth place and were tied with Boston for fourth. The move into first place today came a week ahead of last season's advance, when the Tigers took the lead August 2 and never were headed.

Many Island Industries Benefit

When You Buy SILVER SPRING Lager or PHOENIX EXPORT Lager

FAR too many of the things we buy on Vancouver Island are products of labor and materials produced elsewhere. But that is not the case when you ask for Victoria-made beer. Silver Spring or Phoenix Export Lager because a good proportion of the money you spend stays on Vancouver Island. Think of the industries which directly benefit. Brewery workers, coal miners, loggers and barrel makers, paper and carton makers, printers, engravers, freight handlers, etc. In addition brewery expenditures for water, city taxes and licences mean just that much less for the taxpayer to pay.

You buy the best beer it is possible to make and many Island industries benefit when you buy the beer that's made here!

Popular President of Tennis Club

H. B. WITTER

PRESIDENT of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club, and veteran player, who has been a busy man this week during the staging of the British Columbia and Canadian championships at the local courts. Today the genial head of the club will officiate at the prize-giving, which will mark the conclusion of a successful tournament at the Port Street courts.

Millard (Whitley) Hayes, rookie finger from Chattanooga, was sent for hurriedly and limited the Yankees to eight hits in seven innings to get credit for the victory.

Although the only visible sign of danger to Link was a lump on his head, he was taken to a hospital for X-ray examination. He was believed to be suffering from a severe concussion. The injury led to one of the oddest plays of the season. The ball, striking the left side of Link's head, bounced high in the air and Catcher Jack Redmond dashed down the third base line, caught the ball before it touched the ground and made a quick throw to Red Kress at second to double Ben Chapman off the base and end the inning.

IDA S TAKES MAIN EVENT AT HASTINGS

Sensational Filly Scores Again in Feature at Mainland Track

VANCOUVER, July 26 (AP).—Ida S., brilliant filly of the T. McGachan Stable, won her second feature race of the week today when she captured the West Vancouver Handicap, feature of today's programme at Hastings Park after a perfect ride by Jockey Sport.

After a fast start she dropped back behind the pacemakers for three-quarters of the seven furlongs. When the stretch was reached the filly flashed past Nive Alta and Help Yourself to cross the wire a length ahead. Nive Alta was second and Help Yourself, the favorite, took the show.

Star Shower, after leading the field the entire distance in the second race, was disqualified by the judges and placed last for interfering with Strange Times when the latter was trying to pass in the stretch. Strange Times was given the win position.

FLIGHT...

by W. D. TIFTON
and J. H. MASON

THROUGHOUT THIS COUNTRY ARE MANY PRIVATELY OWNED AIRPORTS BUILT AT GREAT EXPENSE BUT INADEQUATELY SUPPORTED BY THE PUBLIC.

THESE AIRPORTS COULD BE CONVERTED INTO AIR COMMUNITIES. THE AIRPORT SPACE NOT NEEDED FOR RUNWAYS COULD BE DEVELOPED INTO BUILDING LOTS—50 THE AIR-MINDED RESIDENTS WOULD HAVE AN AIRPORT AT THEIR BACK DOORS.

OFFICE BUILDINGS WITH LANDING STAGES ON THEIR ROOFS, LIKE THE NEW PHILADELPHIA POST OFFICE, WOULD BRING THE AERIAL COMMUNITY'S HOME WITHIN TEN MINUTES OF HIS OFFICE.

DURING the boom period of 1929, many private aviation concerns invested millions of dollars in airports over the country. It then appeared that the business of the future would support such investments.

The collapse of the boom found many valuable tracts of land used for airports with no possibility of ever providing a return on the investment. An airport, in order to prevent building operations from encroaching on the flying field proper, must contain more land than is needed for flying alone. This surplus land can never bring a return so long as it is used strictly for airport purposes.

Such properties could be converted into air communities. The building development could be planned so as not to interfere with the runway system. Thus a 200-acre airport would require—fifty acres for flying operations and the balance could be subdivided and sold to air-minded owners.

In such a community the flying field would be at the back door. Airplanes and autogiros of the future will fold their wings so as to be accommodated in the average garage. The existing hangars could be used for the storage of the larger aircraft and for servicing and repairing all the aircraft of the community.

THE FAMILY ALBUM—SETTING THE TABLE By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

WIFE, WHO IS VERY BUSY GETTING DINNER, ASKS HIM TO SET THE TABLE. HE AGREES CHEERFULLY.

PULLS OUT SILVERWARE, DINNER AND CALLS FOR MANY KNIVES, FORKS AND SPOONS. SMALL HE LAY OUT?

SHOES HE CAN'T HEAR. WHAT SHE SAID, FORCING WIFE TO DROP THINGS IN THE FURNACE AND COME TO THE DOOR.

STARTS THING OVER. THE SILVERWARE, RAPIDLY REDUCING TO WILLY DISORDER.

AT LAST PICKS UP HANDFUL OF TABLE WARE, AND WALKS AWAY, THINKING IT ONLY A FEW.

COMES TO DOOR AND SAYS HE SPENT THE BOWL OF POWDERED SUGAR ON TABLE, AND WHAT HE BETTER DO?

RETURNS, WONDERING WHY FIRST SHE ASKS HIM TO SET THE TABLE, AND THEN TELLS HIM TO GO OUT AND KEEP OUT.

How It Started By JEAN NEWTON

BACCHANALIA

"Bacchus" runs the French say, "has drowned more men than Neptune."

Bacchus, son of Jupiter and Semele, was the Greek god of wine. In his honor were celebrated periodic festivals which invariably degenerated into riotous revels, drunken orgies.

The Greeks had a word for it—Bacchanalia.

This was borrowed bodily by the Romans, from whom we have the term having always had attached to it the ancient, modern and odious significance indicated.

"I would like to die this minute." "So would I."

"In that case I would not want to die."—Nebelpalmer, Zurich.

TRAIL RIDERS LEAVE BANFF

Horsemen Will Journey for Four Days Through Rockies' Wonderland

BANFF SPRINGS HOTEL, July 26.—While guests in the Banff Springs Hotel slumbered and morning mists still were clinging in the Valley of the Bow, forty-five members of the world-wide association, Trail Riders, and the Canadian Rockies, set out at 6 a.m. today on the 1935 ride, which will take them through the Red Deer River Valley, famed in Indian days for its profitable hunting.

Youthful George Vaux, of Bryn Mawr, Penn., president, led the horsemen out toward the Great Divide and into the Red Deer country toward Windy Pass, Snow Creek Pass, Baker Lake, Piarmian Lake and Sun Dance Lodge, some of the finest of all the scenery in the Canadian Rockies. For the next four days the riders will traverse a country little known to the thousands of sightseers who visit the Canadian Rockies every summer, but which, when the Redskins held the land in fee, was their happy hunting ground.

Fishing rods were almost as numerous as blankets in the duffel which accompanied the riders on heavily-laden pack horses, for Baker Lake and Harrison Lake, two places where the cavalcade will rest, offer unrivalled trout fishing.

From now until Monday, when the ride concludes at Sun Dance Lodge, near Lake Louise, with a grand pow-wow and election of officers, the riders will be off in the hills in a communion with nature which only lovers of the open trail can fully understand. The organization, which started on a shoe-string several years ago, to achieve world-wide support, is off on the 1935 ride with an almost record attendance.

Shrine Leader to Be Entertained Here Wednesday Next

On Wednesday next Victoria will be honored by a visit from Leonard P. Steuart, who, at the convention held in Washington in June, was elected as the ruler of the Nobles of the Myrtle Shrine for North America for the ensuing year.

Accompanied by his wife and daughter, he will arrive in Victoria on Wednesday and will be the guest of the local Shrine. In the afternoon a visit will be made to Butchart's Gardens, and in the evening the local Shriners with their ladies will attend a banquet at the Empress Hotel.

CHAPTER XXX

In the morning a timid sun tried to shine through still heavy clouds. Stuart Island was a place of excited movement. Repair work was about to begin. And people could smile that they were not hurt, even though their property was damaged. "I'm thankful," they said to one another, "nobody was killed." And they thought of Scott, Court in the hospital. "The Brown child would have drowned if Scott Court hadn't risked his life." "Yes," came prompt responses, "and Mrs. Penfield's boy would have drowned if Noel Stuart hadn't swum out after him."

Noel awoke early. The house was silent. She lay there, her eyes open wide, wondering how Scott was. She got up and went to Scott's room, telling him he was making a mistake in letting Elinor's shallow beauty dazzle him, and the notes left by Elinor and Stephen. She read them again. Presently Beatrice came in, waving a note.

"Stephen sent a messenger. He and Elinor were married late yesterday afternoon. They're not coming down here. I'm going to have their things packed and sent to them. They're going to Maine, and Benton will take the yacht up. Elinor will have her honeymoon cruise on the Beatrice after all."

"I'm glad," said Noel. "Beatrice, what time can I get into the hospital? How am I going to get there?"

"The chauffeur will take you as far as the bridge. You can row over to the mainland. There are buses from there. It's eight o'clock. By the time you get to town you can get into the hospital."

Beatrice went out, knowing that Noel wanted to be alone. She bathed, dressed herself in a trim sport dress. In the mirror she smiled at her happy face.

Downstairs, Beatrice and Deems were having breakfast.

"You look splendid this morning," he said.

After breakfast, Noel put on a new felt hat, a new tweed coat, and pulled on her gloves. In the hall Beatrice and Deems waited.

"If you think of it," said Deems, "stop somewhere and send the largest bouquet of flowers to Scott you can find. Scott must be a hero, even if he hates it."

She kissed them and said, "I don't know when I'll be back. But Beatrice, on my dressing table is my engagement ring. Keep it and give it to Stephen. I couldn't go to Scott wearing it."

In less than an hour she stepped off the bus at the terminal in Baltimore, took time to go to a florist's shop, and took a cab to the hospital. At the desk she said, "I want to see Mr. Scott Court," and the woman said, "Room 314, third floor."

Her heart pounding, not with fear, but with anxiety, but with a new exhilaration. She never knew that the woman at the desk said to another woman, "Did you see that girl's face? Her eyes?"

A small, pleasant-faced young nurse was coming down the hall. Noel asked, "Can I go in to see Mr. Court now?"

The nurse smiled.

"Are you Noel, by any chance?"

"Yes. Why?"

"He's asking for you while under the ether. I'm very glad you're here."

"Why?"

"He's splendid," she said, laughing. "Right in there."

Before the door she paused a moment and then quietly opened it. Scott, lying there, looking pale and ill, glanced up with a start. She smiled at him and he smiled at her, and she wasn't afraid any longer.

"Noel!"

She went toward the bed, noting that the room was filled with flowers.

"Scott," are you

"I'm fine. A little groggy from the ether, but fine. How's everything? I heard about you. It was

"She touched his arm.

"It wasn't anything."

"You don't like being a heroine any more than I like being a hero. It embarrasses us. You look lovely this morning," he said, his eyes searching her face. "Take off your hat, Noel, and your gloves, and sit here beside me."

"When that was done, she said, "There's something I must tell you, Scott." A pause, and she went on. "Elinor—Elinor went away with Stephen yesterday. They—they were married."

"Oh," he said. "Noel, was it after she found out about my legs?"

"She dared not mention that! She had not looked!"

"I really don't know."

"You do know! Elinor didn't want to marry a hopelessly crippled, a chap who couldn't dance."

Noel said, "In a suitcase she found a letter from Linda to you."

"She found that letter? Did you read it?"

"Yes."

His head sank back on the pillow. For a moment he only looked at her, then he took her hand. "You know, then, you know, Noel, that I love you more than I've ever loved any woman or anything in my life. If I could, I'd get down on my knees and ask you to forgive a blind man who asks you to go, and wanted you again. I love you, Noel. I want you to marry me."

"And I love you," she said. "And I want to marry you."

He smiled and put her hand to his lips.

"I'll be here about six weeks..."

"I'll come every day. I'll live at the old apartment."

"You love the old place, don't you?"

"For so many reasons, but mostly because you kissed me there..."

"I'd like," he said, "to be standing on my feet. I want to take you in my arms as I did that night. Noel, I'm not rich, but we'll be happy."

"We have everything, Scott."

"We have each other. Let's wait until I'm well before we're married. I want to be standing. Noel, I've been lying here, thinking, thinking... and all the time you were coming to me! Elinor and Stephen are a good pair. Noel, if I had not been such a fool, none of this would have happened."

"We couldn't tell each other."

His hand touched her face.

"When I'm out of here we'll be married quietly. We'll rent a little cottage somewhere in the country and stay there this winter. And in the Spring we'll go off again somewhere. We'll be vagabonds for a few years, Noel, and then we'll take permanent root."

She must ask him now. He was sure of her. He knew that, no matter what happened, he could still be sure.

"Scott, your leg, is it..."

"It's still here," he said, "all of it. Yes, I know Elinor thought it would have to be amputated. It's only a bad break, but a good doctor saved it. He told me I would have only a limp, and that on rainy days I might limp a little."

"It doesn't matter. It wouldn't have mattered even if..."

"To you, no. But you came, not knowing how bad it was. The nurse told me I was asking for you all the time I was under the ether."

"He told me, too."

"If I'm only going to have a scar and sometimes a limp, I won't mind. If this had not happened, I should be marrying Elinor today. And I know—I was making a mistake. I regret all my life. He smiled. His dark eyes shone. "When you stepped into my studio that day, it was the beginning for me. Noel, this is going to give Linda faith in me again. I didn't like losing her faith."

Noel smiled and looked around the room.

"The Brown child is going to live," said Scott. "Poor little fellow. I had a time to keep him up. I don't want to think of that now. For a time I thought I was gone. Now I'm glad I'm here. A little battered, perhaps, looking at you. I'm talking a great deal. You just sit there and look at me. Noel, but I haven't been able to talk or say what was on my mind."

"I am thinking of the future," she said. "We shall have that portrait of us—Linda's wedding present—in our living-room."

"And when we meet Stephen and Elinor, we'll all be friends again," he said. "No apologies will be necessary. Noel, lean closer and kiss me. I said I wouldn't kiss you again until I asked you to marry me. I have asked you."

"And I am going to marry you."

Their lips met.

The young nurse opened the door with a basket of flowers in her hand, closed it quietly, and walked away, smiling.

DAVID SPENCER LIMITED

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

HOW FAST ARE WE GROWING OLD?

Two sisters were examined by a physician: one was forty years of age and the other fifty. The physician stated that the actual physical age of the one aged forty was really fifty and of the one aged fifty was really forty. He was not going by the years as we know them, but the actual age of the body—blood vessels, heart, kidneys.

And so we find physicians now trying to estimate the physiological age or health of individuals so that they may live more in accordance with this age. Thus there is no reason why the individual who is "getting old" and planning a restful old age, when his blood vessels, heart, kidneys and nervous system show that he is really in his forties.

Similarly an individual in his forties who has never been rugged from infections or the stress of life, may need to pause and plan a less strenuous or more sheltered life if he is to live another twenty years or more.

Dr. Alexis Carrel, of the Rockefeller Foundation, has given "life" a great amount of study. He has kept the tissues of a chick alive for many years. In an address to the New York Academy of Medicine he describes various methods of measuring or attempting to measure age, and how fast or at what rate the individual is aging.

Thus during the war the rate at which a wound healed gave "survival" figures as to the patient's age. These figures were obtained in soldiers between the ages of twenty and forty-five.

However, the most exact method for all ages is by the use of the liquid or serum part of the blood—individual aging.

This method isn't perfect because it isn't able to tell us the exact age of the individual, but it does tell the rate at which he is aging and therefore, he unable to address any he changes that this aging brings about in his tissues.

The thought for you and me, then, is that good blood, enriched by good food and outside fresh air, may to some extent be a factor in "slowing" the rate at which we are aging.

This method isn't perfect because it isn't able to tell us the exact age of the individual, but it does tell the rate at which he is aging and therefore, he unable to address any he changes that this aging brings about in his tissues.

The following meetings are scheduled to take place in Victoria and district next week. All will start at 8 o'clock unless otherwise stated.

Monday, Middleton Guild, Campbell Building; Monday, Sooke Branch, Sooke; Tuesday, Victoria and District Association, Foresters Hall, speaker, Mrs. Althea Coley; Thursday, Minnie Eason Bible Study Class, 1019 Southgate Street, at 2:45, leader, Mrs. Johnson.
